RALPH Mc GILL

'The Rope Was About My Neck'

When he talked about the personality of Christ his face lighted up, until one imagined that an inner light could be seen behind it.

It was almost impossible to believe, seeing him there across the desk, that he had been one of Premier Tojo's war ministry—head of the Ministry of Information for Manchukuo.

But, he was. And now Tomio Muto, the son of a peasant family of Japan, reared in poverty and misery, never knowing love or affection, goes about telling how he attained to power and riches in the secular world and how he gave it up for the personality of Christ—the divine personality.

He clawed his way up out of poverty. His father died when the boy was five. The mother toiled long hours and had no time for her family... save to keep them alive with what little she could earn. At 14 he made his way, a lonely, forlorn boy, to the great city of Tokyo. There he took a job as a house servant in a lawyer's home. He worked hard and they liked him. They helped him go to night school and then to college.

"I had a great ego," he said. "Behind me was poverty. To me life meant attaining success. I did it. I could put on a crown and the robes of a judge. I could sit on the bench and make decisions as to life and death...."

But the year he became a judge he also became a Christian. Methodist Missionary Samuel Wainwright won him. I asked how.

Search

"He talked to me of the ethics of Christ's life. He told me that life should be a search of how to come closer to God, not to material success. He made me see the divine personality of Christ.... it troubled me. But, still, I did not surrender. I took a middle way.... I felt always the struggle, the sense of guilt, but I put it down...."

He knew Premier Tojo well. It was Tojo who chose him from the bench to go to Manchukuo as one of his war cabinet. "They used to call me the Dr. Goebbels of Manchukuo," says Tomio Muto, smiling, with a grim sort of wryness in the smile.

"Did Premier Tojo ever talk about religion?"

"No, Tojo was a strong man. He was like a great powerful horse, with the blinders on the side of each eye. He could run very fast within the area where he could see. And those who wanted war hurried him on from behind. He never had time for any religion...."

When Tojo was hanged, Tomio Muto says he could feel the rope about his own neck.

By that he means he took it as a sort of symbolic answer to his own problem. The great attempt to conquer the world by military and political means had failed. He, Muto, had been a part of that effort. He expected to be hanged himself, being on the list of war criminals. But, they allowed him to go free. He took that, too, as a sign.

He set out to preach as an evangelist to the Japanese.

Approach

"It is not a good approach to Japanese psychology to talk to a Japanese of his sins," he said. "One must first appeal to him with the ethics and the life of Christ. Once he has been given the inspiration of that life then the Japanese may well say, 'This man could have indeed been the son of God.... I will follow Him.'"

His immediate goal was 10 churches, then 20, then 40, then 100—and so on. Last year the first 10 were established.

He now is on a three-months tour of the United States. He wants $10,000,000 to mobilize all Japanese propaganda media. "If we can do this we will win a million converts in the next three years and they will bring 10,000,000 with them."

The basis of his success with his own people he feels is preaching to them not theology, but the divine life and teachings of Christ.

It was fascinating—looking at him across the desk—thinking of him in the Tojo war cabinet—and listening to him talk of winning men to Christ.

Carroll Officials Slug It Out Over Merger of Schools

By MARJORY SMITH

School consolidation squabbles which highlighted a two-day meeting of the State Board of Education erupted into a fist fight here Tuesday.

Two Carroll County officials pummeled each other in the board room just after board members recessed for lunch, following a vote to uphold merger of three small high schools in the county.

Participants were Rep. C. C. Perkins, foe of consolidation, and Dorsey Duffy, a member of the Proposed savings in operation of public schools discussed by the State Board of Education on Page 20.

Carroll County Board of Education. The Carroll board originally ordered the bitterly contested merger.

Perkins, who testified against the merger at a Tuesday morning appeal hearing before the state board, told newsmen Duffy "called me a liar and I knocked him down." He added that his opponent got in a few licks and "we rolled on the floor." Duffy was not available for comment.

HEAR CLASH

State board members, outside their meeting room preparing to go to lunch, heard sounds of the struggle. The combatants were separated by bystanders, including state board member Henry Blount of Waynesboro.

The state board had voted 7 to 3 to uphold the Carroll County board's ruling that schools at Mount Zion, Whitesburg and Roopville be consolidated. Students are to be sent to a school to be located just outside Carrollton.

Perkins warned the board that Carroll County citizens "are so bitterly opposed to consolidation that they will not pass any school bond issues and will be fighting about this for years."

DEFER ACTION

State board members deferred action Tuesday on an appeal against proposed consolidation of Sardis schools with those of Hartwell in Hart County. Linton S. Johnson of Royston and Marshall L. Allison of Lavonia asked that Sardis be allowed to retain a grammar school. Allison said grammar school students, if transported daily to Hartwell, would "have to wait around on the streets from 1:15 to 3:30 p.m." for the school buses which also would be used for transporting high school students.

The state board incurred criticism from two members for its

It May Be a Gag, But One Husband Cuts Off Debate

MASSA CARRA, Italy, March 15 (AP)—Mrs. Pierandrea Marzullani, bride of one month, complained to police that her husband forces her to wear a muzzle.

Marzullani told police he hit upon the idea to cut down his bride's constant flow of "chatter."

BIRD WINS FIRST ROUND—SAN DIEGO, Calif., March 15—A nesting dove (circled) today delayed construction on a 7-million-dollar addition to the Naval Hospital. The bird picked out the cement column over the weekend and refused to move despite a stream of water turned on it. After a conference, the building foreman decided to put the men in the area on other jobs for the time being.

12,000 Aim At Red Cross Atlanta Goal

"Answer the call!"

That's the appeal of 12,000 volunteers taking part in Greater Atlanta's 1953 Red Cross drive. Goal of the campaign this year is $540,302 and 150,000 members.

The first two report meetings of the 4-day-old drive will be held at 12:30 p.m. Wednesday at the Dinkler Plaza Hotel.

The Rev. Harrison McMains, pastor of the First Christian Church, will speak at the report meeting of the general canvass and county towns divisions.

Robert W. Whitaker, associate director of development at Emory University, will address the public employees, office buildings and business divisions.

W. Kelly Mosley, G. Maynard Smith and Henry A. Maddox, general chairman of the drive, urged all Red Cross workers to attend their division report meetings.

Funds solicited during the drive will be used to finance Red Cross work in the Atlanta area and throughout the world.

Last year Atlanta topped a $524,144 goal by $9,000. It was the first metropolitan city in the Southeast to pass its goal.

Slayer Heads South at Own Expense To Stand Trial and 'Stop Running'

BALTIMORE, March 15 (AP)—William Marion Parks, who surrendered to police Sunday for a slaying in Chattanooga, Tenn., 15 years ago, was turned loose again today.

If he wants to clear his conscience, he'll have to pay his own way to Chattanooga. Parks insisted he will drive back.

The 43-year-old bricklayer walked into a police station Sunday night and said, "You can't keep running away forever."

He told of killing a man in an argument in Chattanooga July 27, 1940. A check in Chattanooga confirmed the story.

Baltimore notified Chattanooga. Today they got this reply: "Tell William Marion Parks to return to Chattanooga of his own free will to settle case against him here."

It was signed by T. Grady Head, chief of police.

Cable Cuts Disclaimed By Strikers

By BOB SIBLEY

Widespread vandalism since telephone workers walked out Monday has been "an underhanded attempt to give the union a black eye," an official charged Tuesday.

Meanwhile, company officials reported damage to a 900-circuit Atlanta-to-Charlotte, N.C., line near Camp Creek Church, south of Lawrenceville. Repairmen were working Tuesday night on the line, which officials said was struck with a "blunt instrument," causing undetermined damage.

G. E. Gill, district strike director for the Communications Workers of America (CWA), declared: "These acts are an underhanded attempt to give the union a black eye and we resent it."

Gill said the union "neither initiates nor condones any such action. We have no knowledge whatever of these incidents."

Meanwhile, Southern Bell Telephone & Telegraph Co. officials offered a $5,000 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the persons responsible.

A company official said the guilty parties "will be prosecuted to the fullest extent of the law."

Vandalism was noted at 15 different points in the Greater Atlanta area Tuesday, following reports of four such cases Monday night.

In another development, John Huss, president of CWA Atlanta Local 3204, said he and 12 other union members had been sworn in as deputy sheriffs.

Huss said, "We are going to protect ourselves and the property of the phone company. We are terribly concerned about the cable."

New York Opera Roles Are Going to the Dogs

By MURRAY SCHUMACH

New York Times News Service, Special to The Atlanta Constitution

NEW YORK, March 15—Two dogs with obvious passion for Richard Strauss' music were selected today to make operatic debuts at the City Center Thursday.

The animals proved their musical worth by remaining silent while a pianist banged out chromatic runs from "Rosenkavalier."

Thereupon, they were chosen above six other dogs for carry-roles in the Strauss opera, which opens the Center's operatic season Thursday.

All eight dogs with staid hazards even greater than Strauss. There were, for example, incessant pleas from owners. One woman called to her hand-sized pet: "Be quiet, dammit, before I get the stick. So help me I'll get the stick."

The hapless animal cringed as though it had been weaned on nothing but Chopin and Debussy piano music. Whereupon another woman seized an umbrella with a flute for a handle and began blowing shrill notes through the rehearsal hall at the Center. The dog fell off the piano.

"That dog," predicted Julius in pear-shaped tones, "pose with Rudel, the pianist and conductor, a dog yawning in my face."

Ike Applauds Extension of Excise Rates

By WILLIAM S. WHITE

New York Times News Service, Special to The Atlanta Constitution

WASHINGTON, March 15—The Senate rejected today all Democratic efforts to cut the individual income tax.

It went on then to approve intact the tax program of the Eisenhower administration, which calls for extension for a year at current rates of the excise (luxury) and corporation levies. These bring in about $3,000,000,000 a year.

This most significant fiscal victory for the Eisenhower administration since the President took office was made possible by the defection to his side on the decisive test of five conservative Southern Democrats.

VOTE ON TEST

This test was won by the administration, 50 to 44.

The White House announced through Press Secretary James C. Hagerty that the President "was pleased."

The Senate bill ultimately approved must now be reconciled with a version passed by the House which would grant a $20 a person tax reduction.

The ability of Speaker Sam Rayburn of Texas and his Democratic associates to hold the House in line now for its own proposed cut was clearly questionable. A second and final administration success appeared probable in the end.

SLASH SHOWDOWN

The real showdown in the Senate came on a bill by the Democratic leadership there that fell into two parts:

1. To extend a $20 reduction to every head of household, plus $10 for each dependent other than husband or wife, to all taxpayers not choosing to take advantage of the present split-income provision.

This provision permits a husband and wife to file a joint tax return, halving the total income so that the sum of the tax paid by both is a good deal less than would be the total otherwise.

2. To repeal tax benefits granted last year by a Republican Congress to business and shareholders and estimated by the Democrats to aggregate $6,455,000,000 a year.

This measure failed by a six-vote margin after a harshly partisan debate in which the Republicans cried "irresponsibility" and the

Oleo Heir Being Retried on Compulsory Prostitution Charges; Call Girls Subpoenaed for Testimony

Sobs Halt Pat Ward's Story of Cash Lovers

By ARTHUR EVERETT

NEW YORK, March 15 (AP)—Call girl Pat Ward broke down completely today at the vision of her scarlet past. Unable to go on, her slim body wracked by loud sobs, she won brief overnight respite as star witness at Mickey Jelke's vice trial.

Earlier, her voice fragile, her chin firm, she invoked the Fifth Amendment to try to avoid baring her soul. For five tense minutes the trial hung in the balance before a court directive unlocked her lips.

The lithe brunette pulled up short when asked to name the father of her illegitimate child. Calm at the time, she refused to answer that or any further questions. But she went ahead later on order of the court.

HEAD IN HANDS

But as she struggled on, Miss Ward became more and more distraught. When the state finally began to pin her down on the names of her cash lovers, she dropped her head in her hands and let the tears flow.

A recess failed to calm her. As she huddled in the witness chair, court was adjourned early in the hope she might regain composure by tomorrow.

Before Miss Ward took the stand, the defense injected fleeting references on the record to movie stars John Carradine and Mickey Rooney. They were pictured as pre-Jelke acquaintances of Miss Ward.

The 21-year-old Cafe Society call girl was the state's first and its major witness at Jelke's retrial on charges of compulsory prostitution.

GAGS OVER NAMES

Miss Ward is one of two girls Jelke is accused of recruiting to prostitution. If convicted he faces up to 40 years in prison.

The names Miss Ward gagged over in late afternoon had little public impact. She mentioned a Mr. Lewis, a Mr. Karshan, a Mr. Lowe.

She testified Jelke steered her to them. She gave them a hard luck story and two of them were softened enough to give her money. But she said none of them demanded anything in return.

The state then led Miss Ward up to one Bill Cahn, not identified further. Miss Ward said she sold herself to him and four or five of his friends on her first excursion into high priced hustling.

LISTED IN REGISTER

At the time, the 25-year-old Jelke was one of New York's most eligible bachelors, listed in the Social Register of society bluebloods. Miss Ward claimed Jelke won her love, gave her a ring and led her to believe they would be married.

Defense Atty. George W. Herz previously had traced her odyssey from squalor to mink, an uphill struggle to sham elegance as a $100-a-date Cafe Society darling. In this opening statement, Herz told the jury of 10 men and two women:

"We find her picking up an acquaintance with John Carradine. We find her going out with him."

"We find her picking up an acquaintance with Mickey Rooney. Rooney's name leaked out from behind locked doors at Jelke's first trial two years ago. The stubby actor told reporters then he had met Miss Ward but only in a crowd and that they never were alone."

At his parents' home in Swarthmore, Pa., Carradine said: "She never went out with me. I used to see her around that little theater bar on 45th street. She used to hang out there a lot. She was always there with someone or other."

That was the beginning, the state claims, of an illicit romance during which Jelke converted Miss Ward into a hustler who gave him $10,000 to $15,000 of her earnings within the next few months.

Her testimony was punctuated with names of swank New York and New Jersey gathering places of Cafe Society.

Jelke was convicted in 1933 of recruiting Miss Ward and Margaret Cordova, 25, Puerto Rican-born hat check girl, as high-priced call girls. He was sentenced to

Ike To Fight For Flexible Farm Props

New York Times News Service

Special to The Atlanta Constitution

WASHINGTON, March 15—President Eisenhower has assured Secretary of Agriculture Benson of full support in any congressional fight over restoration of high, rigid farm price supports.

It was understood that the President would intervene personally if the danger arose that Congress was prepared to repeal the flexible supports won by the administration last year.

Farm leaders in and out of Congress foresee little chance of a return to rigid price props. Republican leaders concede they are concerned, however, by the weakness in farm prices and farm income. Net farm income dropped 10 per cent in 1954.

With a presidential election coming up in 1956, some Republicans have talked of trying to induce the President and Benson to announce that present price support levels will be held another year.

Benson reiterated to a news conference today that farm prices had been stable in recent months. He attributed price and income declines chiefly to rigid supports that built up surpluses.

He said he would "actively oppose" any attempt by Congress to restore 90 per cent of parity on "basic" crops. The price declines, he said, was "recognition that federal price supports cannot be used, in effect, to fix prices over an extended period."

He added: "They can be used as a floor in disaster periods or as a stabilizing influence but the real damage comes when price supports become the price."

In question and answer form, Miss Ward began detailing her life through her $30-a-week period as a clerical worker by her meeting with Jelke in June, 1951.

That was the beginning, the state claims, of an illicit romance during which Jelke converted Miss Ward into a hustler who gave him $10,000 to $15,000 of her earnings within the next few months.

Her testimony was punctuated with names of swank New York and New Jersey gathering places of Cafe Society.

Jelke was convicted in 1933 of recruiting Miss Ward and Margaret Cordova, 25, Puerto Rican-born hat check girl, as high-priced call girls. He was sentenced to

'Made Error,' Says Major Who Approved Peress

McClellan Aims To 'Lay Bare All Facts'—McCarthy Blasts Ike Order

WASHINGTON, March 15 (AP)—An Army personnel officer admitted today he made a mistake in approving promotion for Maj. Irving Peress without checking on the security status of the former Army dentist.

The admission came from Maj. Floyd E. Van Sickle, who was flown here from his post in Germany. He was the first witness as the Senate Permanent Investigating subcommittee began new hearings on the celebrated Peress case.

The hearings began with fire-works, Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.), former subcommittee chairman, renewed his charge that the Eisenhower administration "successfully conspired" to stop him from getting all the facts in the case.

McCarthy has complained because Peress was promoted and honorably discharged despite his refusal to answer loyalty questions. Sen. McClellan (D-Ark.), new chairman, said the new hearings are aimed to lay bare the "whole story" of the Peress case.

McCarthy demanded to know whether the lips of Army officers involved in the case have been "unsealed." He referred to an order by President Eisenhower barring discussion of a meeting in the Justice Department Jan. 21, 1954. High administration officials discussed the Army-McCarthy feud at the meeting.

Wilber M. Brueker, Defense department general counsel, said the order is "still in full force and effect." But he declared, "No curtain has been lowered." Army witnesses in the current inquiry have been urged to be "very frank," he said.

HOLLYWOOD EXECUTIVES MAP MAJOR PLANS

Allied Artists Chief Here, Tells of Hiring Top Stars

By BILL DIEHL

One of Hollywood's youngest motion picture producers said in Atlanta Tuesday night that his firm has undergone a major overhauling which will put it in the ranks of major motion picture studios.

Steve Broidy, exuberant, youthful (he's 49) president of Allied

Artists — which until recently made action pictures for the mass market — announced that his studio has signed three of filmdom's top directors and a roster of stars to appear before its cameras during the next 12 months.

The directors include John ("African Queen") Houston, William ("Best Years of Our Lives") Wyler and Billy ("Sunset Boulevard") Wilder, who between them have won seven Oscars. Among the stars: Gary Cooper, Humphrey Bogart, Jose Ferrer. Also on production list of the rejuvenated studio is the filming of "The Phenix City Story" which will be shot on location in the Alabama gang town with top dramatic talent.

First picture of the new schedule will be Wyler's production of a onetime best-seller starring Gary Cooper. Houston will follow with Rudyard Kipling's "The Man Who Would Be King" starring Humphrey Bogart and another top star. Jose Ferrer will star in and direct Barnaby Conrad's best-seller "Matador" in December with "one of Hollywood's biggest femme stars" (presumably Ava Gardner or Gina Lollobrigida).

Hollywood speculation also has it that Clark Gable and Audrey Hepburn are also set for films at the studio, although Broidy would not comment specifically on these two stars.

Broidy said the decision to lure top talent under Allied's banner was influenced by the increasing trend in Hollywood to produce less pictures of higher quality. This, he said, created a void which must be filled to meet filmgoer's demands for a steady supply of top-drawer attractions.

"We approached the directors first," he said, "feeling that if we could get the best there was, the stars would be eager to sign with us. The idea clicked."

Broidy arrived with Maury Goldstein, national sales manager, John Flinn, national publicity manager, and other leading company executives to outline the new production plans, to a Southeastern meeting of Allied Artists sales personnel Wednesday at a luncheon in the Capital City Club.

Visit to Zoo Set by Park Committee

By HERMAN HANCOCK

Mayor Hartsfield and members of the aldermanic board's parks committee will make an on-the-ground survey at 2:30 p.m. next Tuesday preparatory to starting a modern new zoo at Grant Park.

About $250,000 is earmarked for construction of a modern, new animal house at the zoo, but committeemen and Mayor Hartsfield believe the over-all program prepared by George Rice, parks engineer, calling for a long-range outlay of $4,500,000 should be considered before the site of the proposed new structure is settled upon. Rice's plan also called for changing the grade to get better drainage and improved terrain for the multimillion-dollar development.

In other actions the parks committee:

Agreed to permit city school students to use city golf courses and tennis courts free and to permit WQXI to televise softball games at Piedmont Park.

Evacuation Report

A report on Civil Defense evacuation at Mobile and a hearing of three persons, including two policemen, are scheduled at a meeting of the police committee at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday at the Police Station.

Chief Herbert Jenkins said Supts. Jimmy Brown, of the uniform division, and Jeff Sykes, of traffic, are due back from Mobile where they witnessed an evacuation of school children Tuesday. He said he anticipates a report from them on their impressions.

Patrolmen V. L. Thrasher, charged with drunkenness, and G. F. Morgan, charged with accident, are scheduled to face the committee. In addition a demand will be made for revocation of the beer sale permit issued to the Parish Grill, 341 Gray St., NW.

Nonstrikers Can't Honor Rail Pickets

A temporary order Tuesday restrained non-striking members of operating unions from honoring picket lines set up in 13 states by 10 striking AFL train unions. Circuit Judge Stuart E. Lampe granted the order in Louisville, Ky., in response to a petition by the Louisville & Nashville Railroad.

Attorneys of the operating brotherhoods took action, almost immediately to have the order dissolved on the ground that it constituted involuntarily servitude. A hearing begun on the action Tuesday afternoon will be completed Wednesday morning.

Frank W. Switzer of Washington, a mediator from the National Railway Mediation Board, arrived Tuesday in Nashville to offer his services to end the two-day strike by 19,000 non-operating employees of the L&N, the Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis and the Clinchfield Railroad.

Meanwhile in Atlanta, freight service by the NC&StL was at a virtual standstill, but several passenger trains were still in operation.

J. N. Neal, division superintendent in Atlanta, said the line was now restricting its freight activities to making local deliveries and attempting to handle perishables.

Marketing Unit Reelects Wingate

Members of the Georgia Farmer-Retailer Marketing Committee reelected H. L. Wingate chairman Tuesday and then heard a pessimistic report on the Georgia farm outlook for 1953.

Wingate, president of the Georgia Farm Bureau Federation, was reelected at a meeting held at the Piedmont Hotel in Atlanta. The Farmer-Retailer Marketing Committee represents the Georgia and Atlanta Retail Food Dealers Assn., Georgia Chain Store Council, Georgia Poultry Federation, Georgia Farm Bureau, Georgia Livestock Assn., commissioner of agriculture and the Agricultural Extension Service.

Pessimism concerning the 1953 Georgia farm picture was voiced by Charles O'Kelly, Extension Service economist.

"We need not kid ourselves," O'Kelly said. We know the farmer is not faring well.

"Net income of farmers in the nation has dropped 25 per cent since 1946, and the outlook is for farm prices to remain on the lower side of 90 per cent of a price for 1953," he continued.

Explaining the index of farm commodity prices is 87 per cent of parity, compared to 123 per cent in 1946 and 113 per cent in 1951, the economist predicted little improvement in beef cattle prices during the year.

L. E. Farmer, extension service marketing specialist, and Wingate agreed "unless the drought in south Georgia is broken soon, the vegetable production outlook there will be drastically changed."

A Strike Gives No License to Destroy

Among Southern Bell employees on strike are some of Atlanta's finest persons—men and women, young and old.

We are sure they must resent the stamp of "vandalism" put upon their union by those hoodlums who wantonly have destroyed property and who sought, apparently, to deprive the city of police and fire protection.

A dozen incidents of cables and wiring being destroyed were reported by mid-afternoon Tuesday. The most serious was the attempt to cut the cables to the police station. One third of the wiring in a 1,200-pair cable was cut. At one of the Georgia Power Co. buildings, half the wiring in a large cable was severed. In outlying areas smaller installations were damaged.

Union leadership has disclaimed any responsibility. No one ever has assumed that sabotage was a part of union policy. But to an outsider it would seem that an urgent appeal from union leadership to its friends and members that all join to prevent any further damage would be a proper step.

Certainly public opinion will not condone hoodlumism and vandalism.

Unhappily, both company and union, at the request of the negotiator, have not made public all the facts. We continue to be unable to understand what objection there is to a no-strike pledge in a contract... so long as the contractual content is observed. If there is no intent to regard a contract as a binding document, then why struggle to have one? We honestly cannot figure this one out.

The telephone company officials, employees and its service, have always seemed to be a fine example of American enterprise. All of its executives have come up from the ranks. The doors apparently remain open for those with ambition and ability to advance. We are not yet willing to believe some of the literature which indicates such men suddenly have become enemies of those with jobs. Certainly there must be a way for responsible leadership in both the union and the company to get together.

But, vandalism and hoodlumism has no part in it.

An aroused public will not condone its police and fire protection destroyed by criminal elements who feel a strike gives them license to destroy.

Supreme Court Settles Fulton's 'Timber Deal'

The Georgia Supreme Court has voided the controversial sale of a 900-acre tract by Fulton County to James T. Malcom, a deal dating back to October, 1950.

The court minced no words. It pointed out that several higher offers had been made for the timber, including one for $45,000 (against the sale at $30,500), with a certified check attached.

"With clear knowledge of all these facts," the court said, "it was a clear breach of duty, and therefore legal fraud, for the commissioners to undertake to sell the timber to Malcom at a price far below that offered by other parties."

The Atlanta Constitution helped expose the "timber deal." Our opinion, stated at the time, was that the deal was unconscionable. The "timber deal" became, as it should have, a local political issue. It is perhaps significant that the two commissioners who voted against the sale are in office... those who voted for it are not.

The people seemed to feel that the deal was as the court says, "a clear breach of duty and legal fraud." Sol. Gen. Paul Webb brought the case to the court as a citizen and a taxpayer and he, too, is to be commended for so doing and thereby attaining so clear-cut a decision.

One Out of 12 Headed For Mental Institution?

About 250,000 new patients will enter hospitals in the United States this year because of mental illness. And at the present pace, one in every 12 children born in this country will spend some time in a mental institution.

These figures are based on a study by Dr. Francis J. Braceland, chief psychiatrist at the Institute of Living at Hartford, Conn. They point up a growing and costly problem that the nation must cope with.

Dr. Braceland further reports that more than half of the 1,500,000 hospital beds in the United States are now devoted to the care of mental illness. The number of patients who need prolonged, year-after-year care is steadily increasing at the rate of 10,000 a year.

About 9,000,000 people—6 per cent of the population—suffer from some sort of mental disorder. And between 50 and 70 per cent of all patients coming to doctor's offices today have sickness with emotional angles.

In other words, the biggest single medical problem in the country today—and the one about which the least is being done—is mental illness. There is a vast lack of trained personnel in the psychiatric field and public ignorance is abysmal.

Here in Georgia the state maintains the largest mental institution in the country.

Aside from the health angle, mental illness is costing the American people billions of dollars annually in economic losses from unproductive manpower and in maintaining mental institutions. Our treatment consists principally of confinement. Most of these institutions are little more than prisons.

The problem has been neglected long enough. Every governmental agency and every citizen should concern himself with it. The curtain of ignorance should be dispelled and concrete steps taken to end the appalling waste of our human resources.

School Professionals, Happily, Will Do Study!

School professionals, interested in the education of children instead of professional politicians interested in grinding axes, will study the Atlanta school system and its needs.

That is as it should be. When Gov. Marvin Griffin vetoed the recent Fulton County delegation's legislative resolution to investigate the system, he properly declared the county should not create an investigation and then itself do the investigating of the city.

We respectfully submit that if there is to be a study it should be made by professional school people. State legislators may know a great deal, but not one is qualified to evaluate an educational problem.

The Atlanta Board of Education has set up $15,000 to pay the expenses of the study.

It has obtained the services of Dr. John E. Ivey, director of the Southern Regional Education Board; Harold Hunt, professor of education at Harvard University; Walter Anderson, head of the Department of Educational Administration at New York University; R. Lyell Johns, head of Department of Educational Finance at the University of Florida; Daniel R. Davies, head of the Department of Educational Finance at Columbia University and Dr. John Fischer, school superintendent at Baltimore, Md., whose system is recognized as one of the outstanding in the nation.

This is a splendid, independent group of experts with national stature. They are in no degree beholden to anyone in Atlanta and have accepted largely as a service to education.

For Rep. Hamilton Lokey to infer a "white wash" makes, in our opinion, an irresponsible statement unworthy of an elected representative. For Board of Education member, A. C. Latimer to say of these outstanding men in the nation's educational systems they are "handpicked" by the superintendent and "will do her will," is, in our opinion, deeply revealing of Mr. Latimer's own shocking prejudices. His unwarranted reflection on men of unquestioned integrity is certainly not in the interests of education.

In fact, the more Mr. Latimer and Mr. Lokey talk the more the wonder grows as to exactly what it was they had wished to do to the Atlanta school system by subjecting it to an investigation made by persons who know little or nothing about education but a great deal about political feuding.

Gov. Griffin's veto of what more and more appears to have been a punitive planned resolution is a more and more appreciated act.

City Wisely Accepts Airport Suggestions

The Board of Aldermen's aviation committee has adopted all of the recent Grand Jury recommendations to improve administration of the airport—with the exception of one. The changes presumably will go into effect immediately. The city has acted promptly and wisely.

The net result should be a more efficient operation through placing responsibility and authority for the airport more clearly in the hands of the city itself. Certainly all financial transactions, contracts and auditing should be under close supervision and control of the central city administration. All phases of operation, in fact, should be under close supervision at all times.

Now that the matter of tighter administration is being cleared up, all concerned can devote their time and efforts to the matter of a suitable access road. Certainly this should be given top priority by state and local officials. Atlanta's development as an aviation center is being held back because of it. Physical improvements of the airport terminal itself also should receive continued attention.

Comstock Censorship Laws Were Passed By a Congress in a Hurry to Go Home

Atlanta—I saw your editorial on censorship. I agree and wish to add only a few comments about the "Comstock Laws."

These laws were never debated in Congress. The committee to which they had been referred considered the bills very undesirable and had tabled them. On the last day of a closing session Comstock made a motion that these bills, which the committee had not reported, be voted on.

In their haste to finish up and go home Congress voted these laws in without any knowledge of what they were voting for, as these bills had not even been read on the floor.

In addition to the laws themselves violating our constitutional rights, the manner in which they were passed was sufficiently illegal for the courts to void them, regardless of anything else.

He Picks Numbers As More Spectacular

Thomaston — Dr. Charles L. Allen was delightfully old-fashioned the other day in writing a piece on Jonah and the whale—a subject rather widely and not infrequently heatedly discussed in years long gone by.

It seems most people consider the story of Jonah and the whale the most spectacular account in the Bible, but for this distinction I choose the story of the quails, as told in the eleventh chapter of Numbers (which should be read in full to get the complete picture), from which I quote verses 31-33, as follows:

"And there went forth a wind from the Lord, and brought quails from the sea, and let them fall by the camp, as it were a day's journey on this side, and as it were a day's journey on the other side, round about the camp, and as it were two cubits high upon the face of the earth. And the people stood up all that day, and all that night, and all the next day, and they gathered the quails: He that gathered least, gathered ten homers; and they spread them all abroad for themselves round about the camp. And while the flesh was yet between their teeth, ere it was chewed, the wrath of the Lord was kindled against the people, and the Lord smote the people with a very great plague."

Parents Should Pay For All Text Books

Waynesboro — Please let me get in my 2 cents worth, as regards to gifts to school children and taxpayers, as outlined in The Constitution, being considered by an economy-minded state study group.

We have brought up a family and while we have lived in the state of Georgia at intervals over a period of years, this is the only state in which textbooks were free.

I cannot conceive by any stretch of imagination that parents who can afford it would miss a sum to take care of textbooks' cost. I realize that there are a good many poor people in this country; however, if they can afford it they should pay for this part of their child's education.

Sound Barrier Was Broken

After hearing a recent lecture, with questions and answers, on the enigma of the Orient, "Bo" Mc-Leod, the Seminole County editor, went back home and wrote: "One informed word on the China situation is that our experts will be able to figure out the Communists' intentions and actions fairly easily... once we're able to figure out our own."

Much easier to understand is an international incident involving the military outlined by Lt. Col. Samuel C. Allison of Fort McPherson and sent in as what he terms a "comparative joke." This is it: "A dignified general and young good-looking aide, a major, were traveling through Germany by train. Trains there have double seats facing each other. On this occasion the train was crowded, and the two American officers had to share facing seats with an elderly lady and a very attractive young girl.

"The ladies could not speak English, nor the officers German. All were wondering: 'Do we have to spend this entire day without conversation?'"

"About that time the train entered a long tunnel through the mountains. The German trains do not have lights. Just as the train entered the tunnel, there was a very familiar sound of a 'smack'—as of two lips meeting. Immediately after that, there was a sound like someone's hand hitting a face.

"As the train came out of the tunnel, the elderly lady was sitting back, very composed, gazing at the American officers with a stern look. She was thinking: 'I am certainly proud of my young daughter. I'm glad that she had the spunk and courage enough to slap that fresh American general for kissing her while in the tunnel.'"

"The young girl was in a daze—looking from mother to general. She was thinking to herself: 'My mother certainly is spunky, but I wonder why the general kissed her instead of me, and I would not have slapped the old gentleman.'"

"The general was sitting unconcerned, thinking: 'This young major certainly didn't lose any time in getting acquainted. However, I wish that the lady had slapped him instead of me.'"

"The young major sat relaxed, twiddling his thumbs, thinking: 'I have never had so much fun kissing the back of my hand and slapping the hell out of the general!'"

Living, at Times, Appears Hopeless

Every normal person wants to feel a sense of mastery over the circumstances of his own life. No person wants to feel weak and defeated. Yet, as we face up to our own personal weaknesses and the difficulties which surround us, sometimes we do feel powerless and that life for us is almost hopeless.

Well—Jesus gave us a formula for power in living. He said, "Have faith in God. For verily I say unto you, that whosoever shall say unto this mountain, Be thou removed, and be thou cast into the sea; and shall not doubt in his heart, but shall believe that those things which he saith shall come to pass; he shall have whatsoever he saith" (Mark 11:22, 23).

Look at that formula—"Faith in God"—not in ourselves, but in God. "For verily"—He emphasizes the fact that what He is about to say will be hard to believe but it is the truth. "Whosoever"—that means any person, it means me—it means you. "Say unto this mountain," that is specific and definite.

Select any circumstance of your own life that is standing in your way and this formula will apply. "Be thou removed"—taken out of my way. No longer can it hurt me. "Cast into the sea"—gone forever, complete victory. "Shall not doubt... but shall believe." It is through my own faith that the victory is accomplished. "Shall come to pass"—it really will happen.

There are three separate attitudes you can take in regard to Jesus' words. You say, "It isn't true, I don't believe it." But before you say that, remember you are contradicting the most reliable book this world has ever known. Also, you are going against the wisest teacher who ever lived. Before I contradict the word of another person, I want to be sure I know more than that person. And I don't know more than Christ knew.

In the March, 1955, issue of Reader's Digest is an article by David Sarnoff. Who is he? He is chairman of the board of Radio Corporation of America and one of the most respected scientists the world has known. For nearly 50 years he has worked with scientists.

In his article he states: "In its early stages, modern science seemed at odds with religion; but this was merely a token of immaturity. The more familiar story, in our time, is that of scientists who become increasingly aware of the mystery of the universe and come to religion through knowledge of the limitations of science. Indeed, how can those who play with the building blocks of the universe, its atoms and electrons and genes, fail to be touched by awe?"

So, when I say, "I don't believe in the power of faith," I am also setting myself against the testimony of the best in modern science. Science says, "Television works," and the man who believes it buys one and sees it work. Both Christ and Science say, "Faith in God works," and the one who believes that, tries it and sees for himself. Tomorrow we will look at an even more prevalent attitude toward faith.

Hoover Task Force Strays Far Afield

WASHINGTON—An open secret around here is the way ex-President Herbert Hoover is seeking to change basic and long-established government policies through the medium of the commission on organization of the executive branch of the government, of which he is chairman.

To anyone familiar with government agencies and their operations, this is made clear enough in the commission's latest report to Congress this week which contains 48 recommendations affecting federal lending agencies.

But, to make it doubly sure that the public gets the story, it is explained at long last by a Democratic member of the Hoover Commission who also is a member of Congress, Rep. Chet Holifield (Calif.).

He takes occasion to reveal what he considers a distortion of the commission's job, as laid down by Congress. As he sees it, the recommendations which are designed to turn over financing now handled by many government lending agencies to private banks "point in the direction of tighter agricultural credit, a slowing down of housing construction, restrictions on the rural electrification program, and limitation on other direct or indirect aids provided by the Federal Government."

Rep. Holifield thus tells the story of what has happened now: "The Congress re-created the Hoover Commission to study the present organization and operation of the executive departments and agencies, with a view to better management and economy. I do not believe that the Congress wanted advice from the commission on public policies of every sort."

"The commission has construed its congressional mandate otherwise. This report indicates that the commission is willing to roam far and wide in the field of public policy."

It is regarded of some significance that James A. Farley, another commission member, issued a broad, if brief, statement of dissent to proposed policy changes.

"It is my opinion that this report fails to give adequate reasons for recommending changes in certain government organizations, functions, and policies which have served a good purpose, especially in fields where private enterprise has failed to meet the needs. I refer particularly to the Federal Housing Administration, the Commodity Credit Corporation, the Rural Electrification Administration and the Export-Import Bank, although there are other agencies in a similar manner."

Dissents also come from two officials high in the administration and in the President's confidence. Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell Jr. objected to turning over REA to private bank financing. He and Arthur S. Flemming, director of defense mobilization, could not go along with cutting off normal short-term export-import loans by the Export-Import Bank, nor for reducing or abandoning urban planning and reserve of planned public works by the housing and home finance agency.

Rep. Holifield also pointed out that while the commission criticized subsidies in government programs for farmers, home-owners, small businessmen and veterans, it said nothing about much more lavish subsidies to big manufacturers, publishing firms, ship operators, airline companies, and the like, nor about "the hundreds of millions of dollars obtained by large companies as interest-free loans through the device of accelerated tax amortization." Compared with the latter, he said, the former "pale into insignificance."

The New York Times

Right Now Is the Right Time To Dig That H-Bomb Shelter

Civil Defense Administrator Val Peterson laid it on the line in his testimony before the Senate Armed Services subcommittee. He advised all citizens to build some sort of underground shelter "right now" into which they might retire if and when an enemy began dropping hydrogen bombs on the country. On the same day, the governors of New York, New Jersey and Connecticut conferred with Mayor Wagner as to how to evacuate the congested centers of greater New York in time of atomic peril.

The essential technique has changed since the invention of the H-bomb. A new element has been introduced—the "fall-out." With the A-bomb a person either got blown to pieces or burned or badly hurt or he did not. He did not have to wait long before it was safe to come out from under whatever it was he was under.

With the H-bomb he runs the same original risk but he may have to stay in some sort of shelter, if Mr. Peterson's estimates are correct, for "five or six days." He should, therefore, lay in enough food and water to last himself and his family that long.

The partial evacuation of great cities is possible if sufficient warning is given. The mayor's Special Committee on Civil Defense has given much thought to this problem. Approximately 37 per cent of the city's 8,000,000 population, the committee concluded, might not get out except by walking unless more than an hour's warning were given. And Mr. Peterson spoke grimly of inter-continental guided missiles which would cross the ocean in a few minutes and arrive without any warning.

These considerations are not cheerful. They make the days of the Second World War seem by comparison idyllic. But these are the facts as wise and thoughtful men see them. We can dismiss them as a nightmare or we can do something about them. We can't escape, however, by sticking our heads in the sand.

Army Hails More Troops At Worship

A stepped-up emphasis on character guidance in the Army is credited with increasing attendance at post chapel services of the 3rd Army Area from 20 to 24 per cent during the present fiscal year.

The figure does not include soldiers attending civilian churches.

About 20 per cent of the civilian population attends church regularly, the Rev. Robert B. Giffen, executive director of the Atlanta Christian Council, said.

In commenting on the increased attendance at military worship services, Lt. Col. (Chaplain) J. J. McMahon, deputy 3rd Army chaplain, said, "Any experienced commander of troops realizes that the soldier is more than an animate machine, and that his spiritual training is as important as his physical fitness."

"The Army is placing added emphasis on its character guidance program because it realizes that the evil forces in the world today are basically spiritual, and not the atom bomb and other physical Nemises."

The 3rd Army Area includes Georgia, Alabama, Florida, Mississippi, Tennessee, North Carolina, South Carolina and part of Kentucky.

DeKalb Panel Plan Backed By Williams

DeKalb Commissioner Wheat Williams Tuesday endorsed a multiple commission with a strong elected executive officer as best for the county.

In a prepared statement Williams said he had "no desire to direct the voting" in the May 18 preferential vote on changing county government.

But "I do believe that the interests of the county will best be served by an elective executive responsible for efficient administration, and an elective board . . . from the county at large, thus giving the executive and the people the benefit of group judgment on such policy matters as appropriations, zoning, tax rates, voting precincts, etc.," he said.

Williams promised to cooperate with the people in establishing whatever form of government they choose.

The commissioner's choice is the one most highly recommended in a report by Griffenhagen & Associates on the reorganization of county government.

KIN OF SLAIN WOMAN BLAMED IN TOWER

Prisoner Beaten by Cellmate

By RICHARD ASHWORTH

A prisoner was beaten severely early Tuesday in his Fulton Tower cell by another inmate, Sheriff T. Ralph Grimes said Tuesday.

Victim of the beating was identified as Thurgood Wright, 29, of a Hemphill avenue, NW, address, who is being held in connection with the fatal beating of a woman March 8.

Sheriff Grimes said the beating was administered by a prisoner who is the brother of the dead woman's son-in-law.

A Fulton County coroner's jury Monday ordered Wright held for the Fulton grand jury in connection with the death of the woman, identified by police as Lois Wright, 42.

Witnesses during the coroner's hearing identified the woman, however, as Mrs. Lois Esther Guy, the mother of four daughters. They said she had been separated but not divorced from her first husband, Carl Norman Guy. Police reported Wright had papers showing a marriage between him and the dead woman.

A report on the jail beating by night jailer A. L. Battle said another prisoner, Henry Grady Armstrong, 38, readily admitted beating Wright. Battle quoted Armstrong as saying he beat Wright because Wright had "killed his brother's mother-in-law."

(Armstrong is the brother of Walter H. Armstrong who is the husband of one of the dead woman's daughters.)

Armstrong and C. H. Bartlett, 22, have been indicted by a federal grand jury in the March 2 robbery of the Bank of Mansfield. Both escaped Jan. 29 from a prison bus in Tallapoosa County.

The jailer's report said the beating occurred in a third-floor cell about 12:15 a.m. where both men were quartered. After Wright was taken to Grady Hospital for treatment of cuts and bruises, Sheriff Grimes said Wright was transferred to another cell on the second floor.

Battle's report said, however,

DeKalb's Water Board Reactivated; 2 Named

The DeKalb County Water Works Advisory Board was reactivated Tuesday.

Commissioner Wheat Williams named John R. Ridley of Deatur and Cleon Smith of Tanglewood road, in an unincorporated area, to fill posts formerly held by Guy Rutland Sr. and George Mew.

In the order naming Ridley and Smith, Williams noted, "during the past several years the board has failed to meet, transact business, keep records and perform other duties" prescribed by law.

The advisory board was created by the General Assembly in 1943 to review the operation and planning of DeKalb's water system. Its authority was extended to the sewer system in 1950.

The group is supposed to meet four times a year. Williams set the first meeting for Monday, April 4.

It Was Reckless

RICHMOND, Va., March 15 (AP). Lacy Thomas Jr., 22, was charged with reckless driving after a two-vehicle crash here. Police say he collided with a tricycle while driving his horsedrawn wagon at 20 to 15 miles an hour.

Dixie Baptists Plan Big Air Programs

NEW YORK, March 15 (AP). Southern Baptists announced today a huge new program of radio, television and films, with the aim of conveying fundamentals of faith instead of "sticky sentiment."

Dr. Paul M. Stevens of Atlanta, director of the denomination's Radio and Television Commission, said the project plans to avoid the "shallow kind of religion" which he said has become the vogue on the air.

"We are going to try to go back to fundamental Biblical teachings," he said. "We believe that is the greatest contribution we can make to religious life in America."

GOING TO NORTH
In outlining the new program which will extend Southern Baptist broadcasting into northern metropolitan centers, Dr. Stevens sharply criticized much current religious broadcasting.

"It is a synthetic religion, a sort of religious cod liver oil that becomes nauseating," he said. "You can't grow great Americans feeding them that."

He told a news conference that perhaps the most effective religious radio-television work is being done by Lutherans and Roman Catholics.

$700,000 PROGRAM

The new Southern Baptist program, which by next year will be using an annual budget of about $700,000, will include a steady, nationwide output of radio programs, television and films, he said.

It also calls for construction soon of a $200,000 Baptist radio-television center in Fort Worth, Tex. As part of the plans, the 14-year-old "Baptist Hour," now carried on some 400 radio stations, mostly in the South, will expand its network to outlets in New York, Cleveland, Chicago, San Francisco and Denver.

PRE-TESTED PROGRAMS

The denomination, second largest Protestant body in the country, also will begin distributing "pre-tested" television packages—scripts and formats—to its 30,000 churches for use on local stations.

Dr. Stevens said the new Baptist television series, to be called "This Is the Answer," will be based directly on Biblical parables, with the characters placed against modern backgrounds and situations.

$1-Million Tax Claim

NEW ORLEANS, March 15 (AP). The federal government has charged that Lionel A. Dominguez failed to file income tax returns on more than $1,000,000 in 1952 and 1953. Dominguez is reputed to be a kingpin in local lottery operations.

U.S. Aid Sought on Atlanta-Girdling Route

The State Highway Department is attempting to get federal funds for a proposed belt line boulevard circling Atlanta.

The four-lane boulevard would follow generally the proposal of the "Now for Tomorrow" recommendation of the Metropolitan Planning Commission. It would connect all highways leading into Atlanta.

The state officials want to put the perimeter route on the interstate highway system to be financed chiefly by federal funds.

State and federal road officials were in conference for three hours Tuesday afternoon discussing the possibility of adding perimeter roads to the interstate system.

In addition to the highway circling Atlanta, the leaders also discussed a perimeter road for Macon.

Voting Machines Voted at Muscogee

COLUMBUS, March 15 (AP). Muscogee County will use voting machines next year, it was decided here Tuesday.

County Commission agreed to purchase 60 machines at a cost of $1,673 each as the culmination of a campaign of long standing for use of machines here by the League of Women Voters.

New Rocket Has a Brain

WASHINGTON, D.C., March 15. (AP)—The Air Force here demonstrates the Falcon, a guided rocket with a brain of its own. The rocket, held by two GIs in lower picture, is shown in middle picture putting out smoke trail on way to target. At top, Falcon smashes into QB17 jet target drone plane. Electronically controlled, the Falcon has its own guidance system which can direct it to maneuvering target. The new rocket will be carried by interceptor planes.

Penny Fights for Life With Mended Heart

MINNEAPOLIS, March 15 (AP)—A little girl who told her parents not to fear "because Jesus is with me" struggled for a new life today with a mended heart.

For 11 minutes the bloodstream of 7-year-old Penny Rae Raymond of Waukesha, Wis., merged with a donor's while surgeons sealed a hole in the muscular wall dividing her heart ventricles.

Penny Rae, perking up after effects of the anesthetic wore off, was described in satisfactory condition along with Ted Goodman, 41, the donor.

Dr. C. W. Lillehei, who headed the University of Minnesota surgical team, told the girl's parents Penny Rae's heart now is in good condition.

Chief danger now is in the possibility of complications developing during the post-operative period.

The operation was described as Penny Rae's only opportunity to live normally, without having to stifle her energy as a semi-invalid.

The cross-circulation operation, 36th of its kind since it was introduced here almost a year ago, required 2½ hours.

During it, Penny Rae's blood was interchanged with Goodman's by means of plastic tubes and a mechanical pumping device.

This diverted blood past the heart and gave surgeons a chance to sew up the hole, slightly larger than a nickel.

The girl's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Raymond, said she willingly accepted the operation when the idea first was broached.

"She's such a brave girl," her mother said. "She thought only of how it would be to play again as other children do. She kept telling me not to worry, because 'Jesus is with me.'"

Announce New Way To Shrink Painful Piles
Science Finds Healing Substance That Does Both—Relieves Pain—Shrinks Hemorrhoids

New York, N. Y. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain—without surgery.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations.

Pain was relieved promptly. And, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such astonishing statements as "Piles have ceased to be a

War Area Out, Aruba Crew Says

Jet Fuel Ship Awaits Orders

New York Times News Service Special to The Atlanta Constitution
HELSINKI, March 15.—Finland's seamen's union which has kept in close touch with the Finnish tanker Aruba bound for Communist China carrying Romanian kerosene received a cable to-night from the Aruba's crew stating the crew had decided not to sail to the area of war operations.

It is understood that the decision of the seamen has been forwarded to Peiping. The Aruba is waiting new orders from Peiping as to where to unload her cargo.

Owners Vow China Delivery

HELSINKI, Finland, March 15 (AP)—Owners of the Finnish tanker Aruba said today the ship will pass Singapore and go straight to Red China with its cargo of jet plane fuel.

British officials in Singapore said during the day the Aruba would not receive refueling service there or at any other British controlled port. U.S. Sen. John L. McClellan (D-Ark.) had said in Washington yesterday the United States should try to get Britain to prevent the jet fuel cargo from reaching Red China.

In Washington, U.S. Navy officials said today the aircraft carrier Kearsarge had anchored at Singapore, but they said the visit had been planned for some time by the 7th Fleet.

Naughty White House Squirrels Taken Away

WASHINGTON, March 15 (AP)—The White House squirrels are being exiled. It seems they don't know that President Eisenhower's putting green on the White House lawn is no place to bury nuts and other morsels.

When the bushy-tailed gray squirrels are trapped they are trucked a long distance away and turned loose.

Wyo. Hotel Fire Kills 6 And Hurts 5

LARAMIE, Wyo., March 15 (AP)—Fire wrecked the two-story Johnson Hotel today, killing six men and sending five others to a hospital.

Hotel guests leaped from windows and some hung from the front portal signboard to escape the flames quickly engulfing the 55-year-old building. It was of frame construction with brick veneer.

Most of the victims were retired elderly men who had lived at the hotel for a number of years.

Chester Majors of Laramie burned to death. The five others died of suffocation. They were identified as Ed (Boots) Smith, 74, former rodeo rider; Eric Irene and Heinrich Burglund, all of Laramie; Walter Fennell, a Union Pacific Railroad brakeman from Cheyenne; and Harold C. Dahl, Laporte, Colo.

Smith toured Europe in the early 1900's as a member of the Buffalo Bill Cody and Gandy Brothers Wild West shows.

Chiang Vetoes Cease-Fire In Dulles Talk, Yeh Says

TAIPEI, Formosa, March 15 (AP)—The Legislative Yuan (Parliament) was told today President Chiang Kai-shek rejected a cease-fire for Formosa Strait in talks with Secretary of State Dulles March 3.

Foreign Minister George Yeh, who attended the talks, also told the lawmakers the Nationalists would "definitely defend" the offshore islands of Quemoy and the Matsus.

(Dulles had expressed hopes before his meeting with Chiang a cease-fire might be worked out through the U.N. But he told a news conference today that "so far there has been no evidence whatsoever that Communist China would accept.")

(Dulles said a renunciation of the use of force by both sides would "meet the immediate requirements of the situation.")

(Dulles also indicated that if Red China makes a major effort to take Quemoy and the Matsus—and the attack was clearly aimed at Formosa—U.S. air and sea forces equipped with tactical atomic weapons might intervene.)

Yeh said a Communist attack on Quemoy and the Matsus would sig-

"TALK ABOUT MIRACLE FIBERS" amazing what this KID can do...

costly, lustrous KID MOHAIR

weaves wonders into your SPRINGWEAVE suit

KID MOHAIR is the first clippings of the hair of the baby angora goat. It's finer and more costly than adult mohair—and, on world markets, nearly twice the price of fine sheep's wool. It is also 2½ times stronger than most grades of wool.

It takes 5 words to tell Kid Mohair's virtues—silky... springy... pliant... long... strong. Wonderful things happen to a suit fabric when you weave into it about 40% of this costly fiber—as we do in Springweave. And the biggest wonder is—its reasonable price!

SPRINGS OUT WRINKLES

In the Springweave fabric, you have a springiness and resilience that won't let wrinkles mar the rich luster of your Springweave suit. Cylindrical kid mohair fibers, when blended with fine virgin wool, give Springweave its great wrinkle-resistance.

$45.00

ADDS RICH LUSTER

Springweave has that silky, lustrous look, the supple, pliant feel that only the fleece of the baby angora goat can bring you. We pay nearly twice the price of wool to guarantee this performance and lightweight luxury.

DRAPES LUXURIOUSLY

Kid mohair's long cylindrical fibers give Springweave an easy, lasting and luxurious drape. Million Dollar Collar is permanently fixed for perfect fit, smooth, natural line.

ALL THIS—and all-season lightness, too

Springweave offers you a free-and-easy feeling and lightweight comfort year round. Its weight is just right for warm-weather comfort and in colder months, too, when we spend 90% of our time in heated cars, trains, homes and offices. Ewell Blackwell Tests Arm As Yanks Stop Phillies, 9-2

Skowron Lashes Brace of Doubles

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 15 (AP)—Ewell Blackwell tested his arm today as the New York Yankees defeated the Philadelphia Phillies in a loose, dull game, 9-2.

The once-great fast-ball pitcher, who has been sidelined for 18 months with a dead arm, threw easily and without pain. He gave up six hits and two walks and both the losers' runs in the first three innings.

"Blackie" threw 66 pitches, relying mostly on a slow curve. Eddie Lopat, who worked the middle three frames, permitted three hits and Tommy Byrne finished up.

Bill Skowron, who seems to be nailing down a regular job as Yankee first baseman, belted successive doubles in his first three times at bat.

FORT MYERS, Fla., March 15 (AP)—Six walks and an error helped the Cincinnati Redlegs score seven runs in the last two innings to defeat the Pittsburgh Pirates, 9-7.

Dick Littlefield took over the Pirate pitching chores in the seventh but issued a two-base hit and two walks in the eighth to start the Redleg rally.

Domingo Resello started the ninth for the Pirates but proved wild. He gave up two walks and a hit to permit one run. Gene Freese's wild throw to the plate let the insurance run in.

Orioles Top Bums

MIAMI, March 15 (AP)—Two-run socks by Hoot Evers and Gene Woodling defeated Baltimore's five-run rally in the ninth inning as the Orioles overcame Brooklyn, 8-6, tonight.

Leading by three runs going into the final stanza, Brooklyn rookie Bob Darnell, who saved Ken Lehman in the eighth, gave up three walks and a hit for one run and left with the bases filled. Evers singled off his successor, Glenn Cox, to tie the score and Woodling drove in two more runs with a double.

PHOENIX, March 15 (AP)—Transplanted National League Ralph Kiner had a perfect day at bat with four hits to lead the Cleveland Indians to a 13-7 victory over the world champion New York Giants here today.

Kiner rapped out three singles and a double, walked once and hit a sacrifice fly. The veteran slugger accounted for two runs batted in. Tied at 6-6 after six innings, the Indians scored twice

Morant Awaiting X-Ray's Verdict

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., March 15—Infielders Paul Rambone and Billy Porter, vital cogs in Atlanta's '54 pennant machine, may wind up battling each other for the utility job this year.

Rambone operated at third in his first start of the spring Tuesday and Porter followed him at the hot corner.

No matter who wins the utility fight the Crackers can't lose, for the two vets are handy men to have around.

U.S. Athletes Roll In Pan-Am Games

Richards Ties Vault Mark;
Gordien Captures Discus

By HAL WOOD

MEXICO CITY, March 15.—American athletes dominated the Pan-American games again today and when the dust had cleared away they had a three-day point total of 195, against 56 for runner-up Argentina.

Winning three out of the four events on the day's track and field program, the Yanks now have won 12 gold medals out of 17 given in the games. Argentina has captured three, Cuba one and Panama one.

Today's biggest victory came in the pole vault, where the Americans finished one-two-three, with Rev. Bob Richards tying his own games record of 14 feet, 9 1/8 inches or first place. Bob Smith finished second and Don Laz third to give the U.S. 19 points in the event.

The squad picked up 15 points in the discus on a first and second; 18 in the 800 on a first, second and fourth, and eight in the 5,000 meter run on a second and fourth.

Jose Telles, Brazil's all-around athlete, set a record for the 200 meters when he won a qualifying heat in 20.8 seconds, compared with the old mark of 21.3 set by Rafael Fortun of Cuba.

Young Arnold Sowell of the University of Pittsburgh and Lon Spurrier of the University of California provided the big surprise on the cinder-paths when they romped home one-two in the 800-meter run. Sowell's 1:49.7 clipped three seconds off the games mark and left Olympic champion Mal Whitfield wallowing in fourth place.

Two other Yanks, Fortune Gordien and Parry O'Brien, grabbed the first two places in the discus throw, reversing the order of their finish in the shot put yesterday. Gordien's winning toss was 174-2 1/2.

The U.S. moved into undisputed leadership of the baseball competition by coming from behind to trip the Dominican Republic, 6-5.

American water poloists made an impressive debut, also overcoming a big deficit, as they edged the South American champion, Argentina, with three goals by Bob Hughes in the final three minutes.

A tireless runner from Argentina, Osvaldo Suarez, provided the only setback to the United States when he became the games' first double-winner by nipping G-man Horace Ashenfelter at the tape in the 5,000 meter grind.

WAYMAN CREEL'S BIG GUN AT NORTHSIDE
Coach and Catcher Jimmy Roberts (R) Plot Strategy

Northside's Roberts Seen As Mitt-Mask Stickout

Madison, Staples, Ferguson Carry Heavy Loads in 'Youth Movement'

By CHARLIE ROBERTS

Almost everyone, including Coach Wayman Creel, will admit Northside High will field the finest "young" baseball club in the Atlanta City League.

That doesn't mean he believes it is "going anywhere" this season. It also doesn't mean he is certain that it isn't. "Good field, good pitcher, no hit" about sums up Tigers as they look today in early season drills.

Jimmy (Red) Roberts, 200-pound carrot-top who developed into one of Legion 3-AA's finest tackles last fall, seems ready to become one of the loop's finest catchers, maybe the best of all.

The big senior, a three-year regular, has a vastly stronger arm this trip, is a solid receiver and can put ash on apple with authority. Gary Sims is behind him, quite a ways behind him right now as Roberts and outfielder Dewey Ellenberg are the team's only seniors.

Northside's "youth movement" began last year when freshmen Rick Madison and Max Staples became the Tigers' pitching mainstays. As sophs they figure to be two of the loop's best right-handers. But their youth points up the fact that the Northsiders are a "year away," maybe two.

Soph Gordon Beckham, the nifty halfback, and Hugh Pryor may do some pitching, but Lefty Curtis Beavers, a soph who will be the other flinger. Creel needs power - hitter, power-thrower Beckham more in centerfield. Pryor more on second base after a year at third.

John Ferguson, a freshman, you'll be hearing about for four years, will be at first when he recovers from a leg injury. He's a really fine prospect, a natural hitter. He replaces now-gone Pepper Chastain.

Mike Thomas, keystone mainstay last trip, moves to short to fill C. D. Gann's large brogans. Billy Black, strong of arm, fancy with glove, graduates from the Bees to take over the hot corner, and Jimmy Adams and Robert Reynolds also will see some infield duty.

Jack Walz will go in left. Kurt Kroschel, John Winters and Dewey Ellenberg will fight for the right spot. Winters, light with the stick, is one of the best fielders around.

Don't expect too much of the 1955 Tigers. Don't sell 'em short, either.

1955 NORTHSIDE ROSTER
CATCHERS—Rick Madison, Max Staples, Curtis Beavers, Gordon Beckham, Hugh Pryor.

SECOND BASE—Hugh Pryor, Jimmy Adams.

Tech's Net Picture Brightens

Bortell Sees Better Year

Georgia Tech's tennis team has lost the one-two players of last year's team but Coach Earle Bortell Sr. predicts that the Jackets will be much improved as they embark on an ambitious spring schedule.

Two transfer students, improved play of his returnees and fine weather for practice are the reasons Tech may improve on last year's 9-6 dual meet record.

Top transfer is junior Mike Tierney, down from MIT and in a battle with returnees Jack Heisel and Earl Bortell Jr. for the No. 1 job.

It probably won't be until way into Tech's opening trip to Florida next week that the final order of succession to graduated Mac McAlister and Julian Wade will be decided.

Running No. 4 is Lee Jones, while Nelson Arrington, a transfer from The Citadel, and Phillip Cripe are battling for fifth and sixth. Sammy Van Leer, No. 6 last year, has been late starting since he was on the swimming team.

THE SCHEDULE
March 24—at Jacksonville N.S.; 25—at Florida; 26—at Jacksonville N.S.; 27—Georgia; 28—at Jacksonville N.S.; 29—Michigan; 30—at Tallahassee N.S.; 31—Indiana; April 1—Tulane; 2—Vanderbilt; 3—Tennessee; 4—Pensacola N.S.; 5—Tennessee; 6—Florida State; 7—Auburn; 8—Florida; 9—at Emory; 10—at Georgia; 11—Tennessee; 12—at LSU; 13-14—Southeastern Conference championships at New Orleans.

Retirement, Draft and Canada Wrecking Prosperous Lions

DETROIT, March 15 (AP)—The Detroit Lions—most prosperous team in the National Football League—are slowly and painfully being wrecked by retirement, the armed services and the Canadian Football League. The Lions already have lost seven players from last year's team, and the number likely will increase to a dozen or so by the start of next season.

It is an alarming situation for the Lions.

Ft. McPherson Meet Continues

The Ft. McPherson Invitational Basketball Tournament continues Wednesday night with two games. Ft. McPherson and Superior Aluminum Awning Co., both losers of one game, play in the 7 p.m. game, while undefeated Eagles Club and College Park Rams meet in the 8:30 contest.

Bowman—is expected to get his draft call in the near future. Bowman was the Lions' second best ground gainer last season with 397 yards and a 4.1 average.

Cloyce Box, veteran end, and Robert Lee Smith, defensive halfback, both are expected to retire.

But the player the Lions are most concerned about is a little, 165-pound halfback who rates as one of the greatest competitors in the league—Doak Walker. Walker has several thriving business interests in Texas and has hinted he may not be back next season.

Latest to leave the team is quarterback Tom Dublinski, who finally tired of operating as Bobby Layne's shadow and today signed a 1955 contract with the Toronto Argonauts of the Canadian League. Layne is the Lions' No. 1 quarterback. In Toronto, Dublinski will be re-joined with Gil Mains, Lions tackle, who jumped earlier in the year.

Three other Lions—all key players in last season's drive to a third straight Western Division title—have retired, while two others have been drafted into the Army.

In addition to Dublinski, Lion officials feel the most serious loss is that of Les Bingham, the 330-pound middle guard who has called it quits after seven seasons in the NFL.

Also retired are tackle Thurman McGraw, whose injured knee failed to respond to surgery, and end Bob Dove, a 33-year-old campaigner who played 10 seasons in the pro leagues.

Lost to the Army are rookie Dick Kercher and tackle Gerald Perry.

Another rookie fullback—Bill

The rangy Miami fighter has been training hard for the bout and may be even money at the 10 p.m. (EST) starting time.

KEY-KEEPER AWAITS TED

WHO'S IN DROP-DEAD FIELD? SOX HANG ON FISHING LINE

By ARTHUR DALEY

SARASOTA, Fla., March 15.—"I'm all ready for the big bum," announced Johnny Orlando, the keeper of the keys in the Red Sox clubhouse. The words sounded harsh but they bore an underlying note of deep affection. No one in a baseball worships Ted Williams more than Johnny Orlando.

"Look," said Johnny as he counted off the equipment. "I have four pairs of brand new spikes, two gloves he partly broke in last season, 11 sweatshirts and two dozen bats. I got everything here but Williams. When will he arrive? I wish I knew."

So would Tom Yawkey, the owner of the ball club. So would Joe Cronin, the general manager. So would Mike (Pinky) Higgins, the new manager. So would millions of baseball fans. And so, for that matter, would Ted Williams.

Despite the fact that Williams made public announcement in a magazine article last year that 1954 was his farewell season and that he positively would not perform in 1955, he can't wait to get back into uniform and grab a bat again. He isn't playing hard-to-get. The situation merely has gone beyond his control.

It is in the hands of lawyers who are attempting to settle Williams' domestic affairs in a separation action. If Ted's offer is accepted—the overworked rumor mart down here says it is a generous one—he'll rejoin the Red Sox one minute later. If it isn't, he's stubborn enough to turn beachcomber and go fishing. That's something of an oversimplification of the problem. In essence, though, it's accurate.

Because of the Williams' muddle there's a slight air of unreality and uncertainty to the Fenway Millionaires. They know that they haven't a ghost of a chance without him and his big bat. Despite a harrowing set of misfortunes, including a broken collarbone and a bout with pneumonia, the Thumper batted .345 last season. Hitters with his power and class come only once in a lifetime.

Could he identify his left fielder? Higgins winced.

"If," he began and spread out his hands helplessly. "Well, let's not discuss that. I could use Faye Throneberry, a regular before he went into service, or Karl Olson, who used to spell Ted occasionally."

That last item brought to mind a story that Williams told last year with considerable gusto.

"Those wolves in left field baffle me," said Ted, his voice laced with contempt as he mentioned the wolfish fans. "One day they were peeling the hide off me—the dirty no-good baboons. Then they started to holler. 'We want Olson. Drop dead, Williams. We want Olson.'"

"I cupped my hands and shouted back. 'You'll get Olson the next inning, you lousy so-and-sos. I'm through after I hit next.' So I took my turn at bat and then Olson went out to left field. He's a big, strong, nice kid. But he came back to the dugout, dazed and rattled."

"What goes on out there, Ted?" he asked. "No sooner had I taken your place than the fans began to holler that they wanted Williams and that I should drop dead."

Curt Simmons' Arm Hurt; Fears Money Pitch Lost

Birds Return Roe, Seek Palica;
Law Signs; Abernathy Stars

Condensed From Wire Reports
Lefty Curt Simmons, one of the best pitchers in baseball, has such a sore arm he may not be of any help to the Philadelphia Phillies this season.

"I'm worried," he said Tuesday. "I haven't been able to throw even half speed since I came down for spring training. I've tried but it hurts when I try to go overhand. And that's my money pitch."

Owner Bob Carpenter of the Phils thinks Simmons is getting overly upset. "After all, he would up the season with a 2-1 win over the Giants. . . . Maybe he's worrying too much. He does that, you know."

The Brooklyn Dodgers have accepted the return of Preacher Roe from Baltimore and placed the veteran southpaw on the voluntarily retired list. Pending negotiations for a player to replace Roe in the deal, the Dodgers have agreed to pay the Orioles $20,000. Manager Paul Richards of Baltimore reportedly is after pitcher

Erv Palica. . . . Pitcher Vernon Law has ended his Pittsburgh holdout and will report at a "nice raise that puts him in the five-figure class." . . . Outfielder Frank Thomas remains the lone Pirate holdout.

Third baseman George Kell, bothered last year by a lame back and leg injury, makes his first exhibition start for the Chicago White Sox Wednesday against the New York Yankees. The Sox are keeping their fingers crossed. . . . Quoting Walt Dropp, key Chisox at first base: "There will be days when people will think I'm really something, and there'll be days when the same people will wonder who ever recommended me. I guess there's no happy medium for me." . . . Jim Davis, Chicago Cubs' reliever, plans to throw only knucklers at St. Louis' Stan Musial this season. "I tried to fool him with a fast one, high and tight, last season and he lined it for a single," moans Davis.

Ted Abernathy, ex-Ft. McPherson submariner, is the only rookie pitcher expected to make the grade at Washington. Manager Chuck Dressen says he throws a lot like Ewell Blackwell in his prime. . . . The Mobile Beas were impressed with the pitching of veteran Bill Glane and newcomer Bill Sherman. The Bears reinstated pitcher Kennesaw Mountain Landis Hemphill, just out of the Army.

The medley relay team of Al, Hal and Val and diver Bob Kidd will comprise Georgia's entry in the NCAA swimming meet at Oxford, Ohio, March 24-25-26, Coach Bump Gabrielsen announced Tuesday.

The medley relay team will also be split up to compete in individual specialties with the middle man, Hal Stolz of Atlanta, accorded the best chance of winning a championship.

Stolz has been making a froth out of the 200-yard orthodox breaststroke event, re-introduced this year, and for a while held the national collegiate record. That was a time of 2:26.9, which he hit twice in dual meets.

The record stood until recently when N.C. State's Bob Mattson did 2:24.9 in the Atlantic Coast Conference championships. Stolz, however, has been the most consistent in the nation in recording low times in this event and is the Southeastern Conference champion.

Lead-off man on the relay team is Alan Gentry, a backstroke from Knoxville who was born in Eastman and prepped at Georgia Military Academy, as did Stolz. Gentry will compete in the individual medley and backstroke where his surprise victory won the SEC crown for Georgia.

Val Arnold, an Atlanta boy, will swim the freestyle leg in the relay and probably also compete in the sprints.

This medley relay team did not compete as a unit in the SEC meet.

Kidd, from Charlotte, N.C., has recovered from the injury that almost kept him from competing in the SEC meet. Despite a wrenched shoulder, he did place third and is also the Southern Collegiate diving king.

If any of these boys, who are all juniors except soph Gentry, should place in the meet, it would mark the sixth straight year a Georgia swimmer has marked up points in the big competition.

Gabrielsen's record reads Bob Volk, fifth in the breaststroke in 1950; Charley Guyer, fifth in the breaststroke in 1951; Reid Patterson, fifth in both backstroke events in 1952; Patterson, first in the 100 freestyle in 1953; and Patterson, second in the 100 and third in the 50 in 1954.

Giardello on Stand, Denies Attack Role

Twyman, Ferrari Join West; Boushka Makes East Squad

Middleweight contender Joey Giardello denied in Philadelphia Tuesday that he took part in an attack on a gasoline station attendant last Oct. 29.

Giardello took the stand in his own defense in the second day of his trial on charges of riot and assault and said he actually tried to break up the fight.

The station attendant, Howard Short, charged that Giardello, recuperating from a knee operation at the time, struck him with his crutch while several other men beat and kicked him.

WOOLDRIDGE FOOLED DOCS

Card Rookie Beats Odds, Pitches Again

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 15 (AP)—Floyd Wooldridge, who doctors didn't think would walk again after an automobile accident, is making a strong bid to land a place on the St. Louis Cardinals pitching staff.

The 26-year-old husky right-hander was considered one of the club's better prospects for the 1954 season but had to sit it out on the voluntary retired list after the accident in November, 1953.

Wooldridge's right leg was broken in three places between the ankle and knee when a pickup truck he was driving ran down a steep embankment after a wheel came off. The cast came off six months later.

His arm has looked good so far this spring. He allowed only four hits in five innings of an intrasquad game and since the grapefruit season opened has pitched six scoreless innings.

Manager Eddie Stanky feels Wooldridge's status depends entirely on the leg.

Wooldridge, who still nurses a "knot" in the fracture area, is still a little slow in getting off the mound to field grounders but feels he'll be ready to go when the season opens next month.

He took treatments from club trainer Bob Bauman five hours a day, seven days a week for three months. Then this winter, he pitched for Havana and Cienfuegos in the Cuban League and turned in a 3.30 earned run average. Now he's off the retired list.

He had a 15-13 record at Houston in 1953 and a season-ending 2-0 mark at Rochester in the International League the same year with 2.20 and 2.81 ERA marks.

Jim Stamps Enjoying His Tour of Circuit

By Bert Prather

Big Jim Stamps, a graduate of Atlanta many courses, reports he's enjoying his first tour-with the professionals. Jim missed the payoff by a shot with his 280 in the San Antonio Open and was two strokes away in the Houston Open with 285.

At Baton Rouge he tied for 20th place. He'll rejoin the tour at St. Petersburg, Fla., Thursday.

Jim says the big-time pros have been wonderful to him. "I've really learned plenty from them in the short time on the circuit. If I can just get my putting down now, I believe I'll be able to score well enough to get into the money."

During his stay here Jim tried out Paul Lavin's Adams Park course and was five under for 12 holes. Jim started his golf career on Gordon Morris' College Park course. Stamps also played on several Atlanta public links teams.

CHIP SHOTS: Lefty Ewing, 14-year-old Capital City Club player, whammed in a full seven iron for two on CC's 10th hole. Due to construction on the 10th fairway, the 16th tee is being used, shortening this par five to a four. . . . Willie Miles of Capital City pro shop, is heading for a vacation in Nassau. . . . Standard Town and Country Club's blind bogey prize was shared by Dr. Henry Caplan, Irwin Greenbaum, Richard Herzog, Howard Feur and Alfred Berman. The number was 74 Sunday. . . . Ed Robinson, who likes birdies but gets few, tapped one in Sunday on the 7th hole at North Fulton. . . . Paul B. Ford and son Tommy tied for first in Sunday's West End blind bogey play, posting 75s. J. A. Womack and Aric Bond were second with 76s.

PAPA Hal Denson had better get back on that practice tee and sharpen up his game. Last Friday his pretty 14-year-old daughter, Joyce, City junior girls champion, holed out a four iron for an ace on the second hole of East Lake No. 1 course. Then on Saturday, Mrs. Hal posted a 79 over the same course to break 80 for the first time. . . . Louie Hill and Louie Render staged a real championship match in their second rounder of the East Lake seniors tournament Sunday. Render shot a 3-under-par 68 to Hill's 71 for a 3 and 2 decision. The Louies then teamed up in the best ball of pair vs. par competition to tie for first with Billy Street and Ernest Harrison, both teams being 7-up on par. . . . In the Lake's cat and doggie, the team of Mr. and Mrs. M. Hoopes registered a minus six to tie Mr. and Mrs. Hal T. Denson. . . . Ft. McPherson's golf team decided Atlanta General Depot's sharpshooters Sunday, 50½-42½. Doug Smith, who learned his golf at Scotland's famous St. Andrews, paced the Ft. Macs with a 66. Pfc. Richard Waters carded a 69 for the Depot team.

JACKSON LOAN DEFENDS

Some 40 Clubs Open Amateur Baseball Season on April 2-3

By CHARLIE ROBERTS

Forty or more teams and nine or more leagues of the Atlanta Amateur Baseball Federation will open their 1955 firing on Saturday and Sunday, April 2-3, it was announced Tuesday by Fred Miller, AABF official.

Manager Ben Massengale, whose Jackson Loan team won the city tournament in 1954 and later competed in the national tournament in Youngstown, O., will field two clubs this season. His Jackson nine will compete in a Sunday loop, his Layfield Garage unit in the strong Saturday City League.

Some 28 teams are certified for Sunday play, and Miller hopes to organize a half dozen six-team leagues. The City League and two other Saturday loops will be formed, with possibility the old Textile League will be reactivated.

League championship clubs planning to field teams again include Jensen Kelley's Candier Park, Jake Boyd's Scottsdale outing, Duluth will also be after a second straight flag.

Powder Springs, managed by J. H. Duke, will be back in action after a few years on the sidelines. A new Local 472 club will be piloted by V. E. Spruell. Whittier Mills, with Billy Grier managing, also will return to action.

Griffin Has Good School Proposal

By M. L. ST. JOHN

Gov. Griffin has made a good suggestion for a permanent solution to the perennial school crises, in so far as the state is concerned. He told the State Programs Study Commission that the state should draw a line on how much education it will provide its children—and leave the rest of the job up to the local communities.

Now, all the governor and the commission have to do is to determine where that line shall be.

The governor told the group, which holds its second meeting today with Department of Education officials, that the state should provide only the basic courses. The local communities would provide the frills, if they wanted them.

Now, all the governor and the commission have to do is to determine what is basic and what are frills.

Commission members have asked if local communities wouldn't have more money if the homestead tax exemption was abolished.

If someone had suggested that Georgia's educational problems could be solved by abolishing those counties which couldn't afford to finance their share of education, he wouldn't have been any farther afield than the idea that homestead exemption could be scrapped. There isn't a chance of the exemption being repealed.

FREE BOOKS

The suggestion was made that free textbooks be abolished. The state surely is buying school books for thousands of children who can well afford to pay for their own. At the same time, a lot of children cannot buy the books. Perhaps books could be slipped to the poor children in the same way that free lunches are provided them now, but it is difficult to see how. Since the state, through mass purchasing power, obtains books at one-fifth what it would cost the individual, it seems better economy to pay a little extra in taxes and continue the blanket free textbook plan.

Couldn't money be saved by scrapping the compulsory attendance law and visiting teachers? Sure, if the state wants to close its eyes to a group of children who need a common school education.

The suggestion was made again that supervisors be eliminated. To do this would be to shut the state's eyes over spending of millions of dollars . . . letting local systems

ADG Group To Plan Armed Forces Day

The Atlanta General Depot Army Advisory Committee will discuss plans for May 19 Armed Forces Day observances at 12:30 p.m. Wednesday at East Point's American Legion Post No. 51.

The committee, which has as its objective the maintenance of good depot-community relations, is composed of some 75 civic leaders from Atlanta, Avondale Estates, College Park, East Point, Ellenwood, Fairburn, Forest Park, Griffin, Hapeville, Jonesboro, Lake City, McDonough, Morrow and Stockbridge.

spend state money for good or poor education as they see fit.

Other suggestions involve quality of education, too. The state could save $3,500,000 annually by abolishing the 12th grade. It could save money by encouraging teachers who have only two years of college education, instead of moving toward qualification of four-year degrees. Here the state will have to decide what is good economy.

CAN SAVE MONEY

It is impossible to think that in a yearly budget of $104,000,000, officials cannot save a single dollar through economy and efficiency. Dollars can be saved in most fields suggested by commission members—without scrapping any of them. Local governments' used to finance most of the school budgets. As the state increased its spending to improve schools, local effort dropped off. If the state hasn't got the money, it is going to have to do as Gov. Griffin says: just announce that the state will pay for reading, 'riting and 'rithmetic only.

Solons Seek Views on U.N. Here

Georgians' views on the United Nations will be heard by a special Foreign Relations subcommittee in hearings Thursday in Federal Court Room No. 318, Old Post Office Building.

The hearings are scheduled from 9:30 a.m. to noon and from 2:30 p.m. to 4:30 p.m.

The charter of the United Nations is due to come up for review sometime after 1955. The subcommittee has been directed by the Senate to make a full study of the charter and American participation in the United Nations.

Witnesses may include in their statements any remarks they believe are relevant to the changes that might be made in the U.N. charter in the best interests of the United States and world peace.

Members of the subcommittee are Sen. George of Georgia, chairman, Sens. Holland, Sparkman, Mansfield, Wiley, Smith of New Jersey, and Knowland.

This will be the seventh in a series of "grass roots" hearings on the U.N. that began in Akron, Ohio, in February 1954. The hearings represent the first attempt by the Foreign Relations Committee to take a major foreign policy question directly to the people for discussion.

Dr. Phil B. Narmore, executive dean of Georgia Tech, is in charge of local arrangements for the hearing.

Why Scrap Free Competition

In the production of Natural Gas or any other product?

Natural gas comes to most consumers through interstate pipelines and local utility systems. They have franchises from state or local bodies, and have long been regulated.

The producers who find the gas have not been regulated because more than 5,000 of them compete vigorously—and free competition is the best of all price controls.

Yet these producers have recently been singled out for Federal controls and price-fixing.

This is a step without peacetime precedent—to price-fix a consumer product at its source. It is a step that deeply disturbs many Americans, including the undersigned committee.

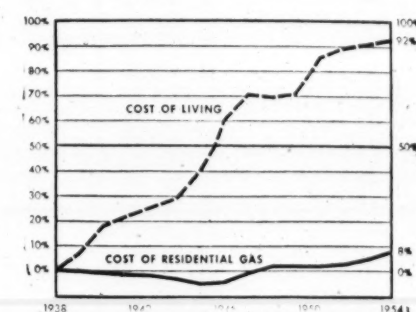

They believe the proposed controls are against the public interest and can benefit no one. They believe the issue goes far beyond gas. It goes to the roots of America's greatness. They believe the controls plan is unwise for many reasons.

It is Unnecessary because gas supplies have tripled in sixteen years. And costs to consumers have risen a nation-wide average of only one-eleventh as much as the cost of living.

It is Dangerous because it could easily be the first step toward Federal controls on coal or oil—or lumber or grain or your business.

It is Unfair because it singles out one competitive industry for such controls.

It is Shortsighted because it stifles the bold and risky exploring that's needed to assure adequate supplies.

As shown by the chart above, based on figures of the Bureau of Labor Statistics for a national average, the cost of natural gas to the residential consumer has gone up only one-eleventh as much as the cost of living in sixteen years.

MOBILE, Ala., March 15 (AP)—Some 45,000 school children were whisked from their classrooms to rural safety zones 20 miles away today in the nation's biggest mass evacuation against possible air attack.

"Operation Kids" went off without a major hitch.

Gruenther Sees Kayo For Soviet

PARIS, March 15 (AP)—Gen. Alfred Gruenther, supreme Allied commander in Europe, said today that the Soviets would be defeated in an atomic war if they attacked now.

But he told a press conference that such a war need not come if the 14 NATO nations maintain their present unity.

"I am reasonably confident for the future," he said.

Gruenther told the press that the biggest gap in Europe's defenses in the air is being plugged by a new scientific organization in The Hague and a special new air defense staff at North Atlantic Treaty Organization headquarters here.

He said Western superiority now and in the future depends upon the West's capability of delivering atomic weapons. The Communists, Gruenther said, have no answer to the American B47 jet bomber or to the even better B52 intercontinental bomber now entering service in the Strategic Air Command.

4,000 Fill Questionnaire At U. Division

More than 4,000 Atlanta Division students this week completed questionnaires which will figure in any decision on making the school an independent unit of the University System.

Tabulations of the questionnaires will be used by Chancellor Harmon Caldwell in making his report to the Board of Regents next month, said L. R. Seibert, executive secretary of the regents.

Seibert said Tuesday the regents must "assess as much information as possible" about Atlanta Division students and their needs. He added that additional studies may have to be made before the board meeting April 13.

Categorical tabulations of the questions are being made by J. D. Blair, registrar at the Atlanta Division, and were not immediately available. Questions ranged from employment and marital status quo to: "Is the Atlanta Division now offering courses, major programs and degrees in which your chief interest lies?"

In the meantime, 3,000 students have signed a petition favoring divorce from the University of Georgia at Athens. The resolution was originally adopted by the student councils.

The petition will be forwarded to Chancellor Caldwell as an "indication of the interest of the student body," said Herb Stem, student president.

GEORGIA NEWS

Firebreaks Hold; Wind Shifts Eyed

Georgia foresters watched uneasily for shifting winds Tuesday night but all firebreaks around major south Georgia woods blazes were holding.

Only one fire was out of control in the week-old series of outbreaks. That was in the Black Hammock area on the west side of Okefenokee National Forest. Eighth District Forester G. W. Lavinder said he thought he could "control it without too much trouble."

Breezes have brought a pall of smoke that almost blankets Ware County.

Lavinder considered the situation good enough to return light firefighting units borrowed from Cherokee, Floyd, Richmond, Morgan, Walton, Fulton, Franklin, McDuffie, Warren, Polk and Gwinnett counties.

First District Forester Walter Stone, reporting from Statesboro, said he "only had 13 fires" Tuesday. All were quickly brought under control.

A state investigator is checking reports of incendiary in Chatham, Bryan, Effingham and Screven counties.

Newton Quota Set

Herbert Katz, chairman of the annual Newton County Red Cross membership drive, said the county quota will be $4,800 this year. Four men pleaded guilty in Fayette County Superior Court Tuesday to a series of burglaries in Fayette County. The men and sentences received are: James W. Lester, 15 to 20 years on each of eight counts of burglary and five years on a larceny charge; Samuel T. Norton, 12 to 15 years on each of two counts; Grady T. Ward, 10 to 15 years on each of two counts, and Earl Dupree, five to seven years on each of two counts. All sentences are to run concurrently. William R. Johnson, 54, of Savannah has been indicted on charges of evading $18,305.74 in income taxes for the years 1948-51. The Cairo High School band, directed by "Major" Billy Verran, won first place in 12 of 15 events at the district music festival held in Moultrie.

Radioactive Rain

A "radioactive rain" fell in the central Savannah River area, but while it was recorded on sensitive instruments in the Savannah River plant area at Augusta, it presented no threat to personnel. G. O. Robinson, public relations director at the H-plant, said the light rain... "brought down with it above usual quantities of fission product activity," but added that "there is no personal hazard." The "radioactive rain" was a result of the recent nuclear tests in Nevada. Middle South Georgia is still being seriously hit by dry weather which threatens to delay planting, farm officials said. Owners and operators of stores, night clubs and other places of business in East Dublin were warned Monday by acting Chief of Police Edison Harbin Jr. that the town will be cleaned up insofar as whiskey is concerned. NW Freeway Leg Lighting Bid Is Tabled

The Joint Bond Commission Tuesday tabled a request from the city Board of Aldermen to install lights on the northwest leg of the Expressway connecting Howell Mill road, NW, with the Marietta highway.

Action on the request was deferred in favor of what members said was "the more urgent" problem of acquiring rights-of-way on the downtown connector. The unlighted segment of road is still under construction.

Chairman W. O. Duvall appointed a five-member committee, including himself, to confer with State Highway Department officials on problems involved in getting rights-of-way in the heavily congested area between Baker street and Memorial drive.

Other members of the committee are: Everett Millican, Frank Neely, Robert H. McDougall and E. S. Papy.

2 Carroll Officials Swap Blows Over School Merger

Rep. Perkins, Consolidation Foe, Embattled as Plan Wins

Monday action in reversing a decision and voting 7 to 2 that two high schools in Greene County need not be merged. These schools are located at Greensboro and Union Point.

THEY CARRIED COUNTY

The board had acted after John Sammons Bell, chairman of the State Democratic Committee, reminded that Union Point voters "carried Greene County" for Griffin. Bell told the board to "trust our political friends."

Board member Irwin Kinsey said the new Greene County decision "set a precedent we will find hard to live up to." Blount, who with Herschel Lovett had voted against two schools for Greene County, said the new action "may open the floodgates" for more merger troubles.

The board Tuesday approved a new teacher allocation plan for schools in "sparsely settled" areas which Dr. Claude Purcell, assistant state schools superintendent, estimated will save $3,000,000 by the time the current state school-building program is completed.

LOADS RAISED

The plan raises teacher loads in smaller counties, Purcell explained, but still stays within Minimum Foundation standards. It provides that one teacher shall be required for each 25 students in certain small elementary schools which formerly required one teacher for each 20 students. In high schools the minimum student load is raised from 15 to 20.

No teachers now in the system will be involved, Purcell stressed. He said application of the new "density scale" would reduce the number of teachers actually to be allotted for the next school year by approximately 400, a saving to the state of some $1,200,000. Some 1,000 teachers would be "saved" by completion of the current state school-building program, according to Purcell.

In other action, the board passed a resolution restating a former decision that workbooks are not essential in Georgia schools and prohibiting systems from assessing students or parents for workbooks and "consumable materials." The resolution prohibits school systems from "engaging in the handling of any and all school supplies, exclusive of lunchroom supplies."

Humphrey said, "We are watching attentively the conditions which the new higher levels of the stock market is creating."

But he said, "There is no impending crash," adding: "I don't believe that anybody believes we are headed for another 1929."

He called the rise in the market the past 18 months the "rebirth of confidence in the functioning of our free enterprise system."

Humphrey said business activity has been expanding and this month may be one of the highest in history.

SENATORS DISAGREE

Capehart and Fulbright differed sharply as to the purpose of the inquiry. Capehart said its general tenor had been "on the negative side to prove that stock prices are too high." Fulbright said it was "purely preventive in intention."

Capehart protested at one point that Fulbright, who used to be an educator, was lecturing Republicans "like a professor."

"You stick to your knitting," said Capehart. "We do not need any lectures from you or anybody else."

FULBRIGHT IS TART

Fulbright, his Arkansas drawl dripping with irony, told Capehart he "always adds a great dignity and intelligence" to Senate deliberations.

During tax debate on the Senate floor, Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn.) sharply criticized Secretary Humphrey for saying the stock market inquiry might undermine confidence.

Sen. Humphrey said the stock market and big business "are the untouchables—the sacred cows of the Republicans." He said there had been no similar protests from the administration when, as he put it, some $10 billion plus of farm assets and incomes were liquidated by lower price supports.

Two Women Found Dead

Bodies of two Negro women were found Tuesday in Atlanta at widely separated places, police reported.

The body of Helen Tucker, of 347 Rawson St., SW, was discovered in the basement of the City Auditorium where she apparently fell unnoticed during a dance Monday night, police said. Sgt. L. L. Hause and Det. W. S. Acree said her body was found in a shaft beside the east ramp.

Spring cleaning for the 1955 football season at Herndon Stadium turned up the body of an unidentified Negro woman.

The body was discovered in a rest room, Dets. W. E. Petty and H. F. Brown said. She had been covered with a bedspread.

Detectives quoted a medical examiner as saying the woman had been dead from two to six weeks.

2 Are Indicted In Morals Cases

A 29-year-old Mountain View man was indicted Tuesday for assault with intent to rape a Hapeville mother of three children. An indictment returned by the Fulton Grand Jury charged that Nathan Stuckey attacked the woman March 10.

The woman told officers that Stuckey, with whose family she was acquainted, attacked her while she was home alone. She said he threw her on a bed, then chased her through the house when she resisted his advances. She said she finally persuaded him to leave.

The jury also indicted a College Park resident, Charlie Dutton, for molesting an 11-year-old girl.

396 Prisoners In County Jail Is 4-Month Low

Prisoner population at the Fulton County jail Tuesday was reported at its lowest mark in four months.

Sheriff T. Ralph Grimes said 396 prisoners were on hand Monday compared to 519 in November when county officials began urging state officials to move state prisoners out of the jail faster. Only 107 of the prisoners at the Tower are under sentence, he said. During November more than 200 prisoners at the jail were under sentence and awaiting transfer to state penal institutions.

a theater at the close of a play will walk out in orderly fashion in short order. But if as the curtain goes down someone calls "fire," terror can reign and great injury result."

Humphrey didn't directly mention the recent sharp selloff in the market, but Capehart did.

Capehart, who was chairman of the Banking Committee when the Republicans controlled the Senate, said the hearings have had a tendency to cause price breaks and frighten small investors into selling out.

WOULD CALL HALT
Capehart demanded that the committee call a halt to what he called "an investigation of prices" instead of trying to find out whether any groups may be "trying to push speculative stocks up and down for their own benefit."

"I am sure no member of this committee wants to affect stock prices one way or another," Fulbright said in a formal statement.

"It seems to me," he added, "that those who are complaining that our study is affecting the market must either take the position that we have no business studying it or that the public is not entitled to know the results of our study."

Humphrey said, "We are watching attentively the conditions which the new higher levels of the stock market is creating."

But he said, "There is no impending crash," adding: "I don't believe that anybody believes we are headed for another 1929."

He called the rise in the market the past 18 months the "rebirth of confidence in the functioning of our free enterprise system."

8,000 Due Here in Busy GEA Convention Activity

By BERT SPENCER

Thousands of Georgia school teachers will converge on Atlanta Wednesday for one of this convention city's biggest—the 88th annual Georgia Education Assn. meeting.

There will be 1,500 official delegates to the GEA convention. Other teachers and families of teachers will swell the ranks to an estimated 8,000 persons, 6,000 of them from outside the Atlanta area.

BUSY SCHEDULE

Most of the general sessions of the GEA and its special groups will be held Thursday and Friday. Public school educators will begin arriving Wednesday to attend several special meetings or to do some pre-convention shopping. Teachers, principals and administrative officials will find time to shop and sight-see in the capital, but a heavy schedule of professional sessions will keep them in convention rooms during much of their stay.

A GEA official estimated 95 per cent of the convention will be concerned with exchange of professional information and instruction. The remaining time will be spent on discussions of teacher welfare.

"Teacher welfare" will bring discussions of teachers salaries, pensions and working conditions. Working conditions would include general school problems and probably discussions of the Adequate Program for Education in Georgia.

VOICE TO BE HEARD

Current financing questions raised by the State Programs Study Commission such problems as whether to do-away with the 12th grade and free textbooks—may bring comment from the educators.

One thing is sure: whatever the politically influential GEA says as an organization, probably through general resolutions Friday, will get a careful hearing from state leaders.

GEA directors will hold one of the first meetings of the convention at 12:30 p.m. Wednesday at the Piedmont Hotel.

The meeting's biggest "convention within a convention" will start Wednesday. It will be the Georgia Music Educators Assn. meeting, expected to draw 1,500 teachers to sessions at Bass High School.

Besides attending general convention assemblies and departmental sessions, many teachers will go to luncheons, teas and exhibits sponsored by local firms.

STUDENT DRIVERS PROPOSED

Savings of Millions Seen In New School Bus Plan

The state of Georgia could save millions of dollars annually if present methods of transporting school children over the state were revised, the State Board of Education was told here Tuesday.

Joe DeFoor, director of school transportation for the State Department of Education, said "a $14,700,000 job could be done for nine million dollars next year" if student school bus drivers were used.

DeFoor submitted a list of other proposed changes which he was directed to take before the State Program Study Committee Wednesday.

PROPOSED CHANGES

Recommendations include a shift from privately owned to county-owned school buses, reduction of the number of bus stops, revamped routes, a new set of standards and medical examination requirements for all school bus drivers, and elimination of "dead-head travel" in which buses are empty for long stretches and of "taxi service" in which some school children are "picked up and deposited at the door of their homes."

Assistant State Supt. Claude Purcell told the board a $100,000 annual saving could result if Georgia emulated Alabama and transferred insurance for transported school children to the Workmen's Compensation Board.

Such a shift would require an act of the Georgia Legislature, Dr. Purcell said. He reported the state pays $150,000 for such insurance annually under its present plan.

THREE ASSIGNED

Board Chairman George Whitman Jr. directed three board members, Henry Stewart, Jim Peters and Henry Blount, to work with Dr. Purcell in studying the proposed shift.

Many states now employ teen-aged student drivers, DeFoor told the board. He cited accident statistics to show "the small number" of accidents by that age group. Only three states now have the statutory age requirement of 18 or above that Georgia sets for school bus drivers, he said.

Herschel Lovett, a board member, told the board that majority of bus drivers were hired "on a political and friendship basis." He suggested that punching time clocks at schools be required of school bus drivers. Board members also discussed possible need for speed governors on school buses.

Tunic Dress—New Paris Fashion

One of the most interesting new fashions to come out of the recent Paris openings is the tunic dress, launched by the great Spanish couturier Balenciaga.

His were all long—to the knees or below—and straight in line, with a belt in the back only, if at all.

The skirts beneath were absolutely straight and slim, of course.

Interestingly enough, the tunic fashion had been brought out here, too, in the early spring collections of some of our own top American designers.

These differ from those of Paris, however—are smoothly fitted flared tunics instead. So you may choose whichever you like best or think is the most becoming to your own figure.

I Took a Sip, Swallowed All

The book came in the mail in the morning and I meant to dip into it that luxurious way that wine-tasters must operate. You know, take a sip from this chapter and that, to test the aroma and the flavor, but to swallow nothing for the time being.

Later, of course, when the day's duties were done and that after-bedtime peace descended on the house—if ever—I'd settle myself and read the whole book.

When I came to an hour or so later I felt as stimulated and inspired as if I'd had a talk with a good friend, as soothed and comforted as if I had been to church. I had read the book from cover to cover!

It's Anne Morrow Lindbergh's first in 11 years—a slender little volume called "Gift From the Sea."

Mrs. Lindbergh is a beautiful writer—a poet, really. But better than that, she is a thinking, feeling woman and she has a message for all women in "Gift From the Sea." She has set down some conclusions about living which she ostensibly arrived at on a solitary beach holiday during which she picked up some seashells and saw the lessons they had to teach.

It's safe to assume, I believe, that Mrs. Lindbergh has spent her life thinking these things out and the seashells only helped her put them in focus.

From the shell—the channelled whelk—she was impelled to examine the shape of her life.

"The shape of my life today starts with a family," she writes. "I have a husband, five children and a home just beyond the suburbs of New York. I have also a craft, writing, and therefore work I want to pursue. The shape of my life is, of course, determined by many things: my background and childhood, my mind and its education, my conscience and its pressures, my heart and its desires. I want to give and take from my children and husband, to share with friends and community, to carry out my obligations to man and to the world, as a woman, as an artist, as a citizen."

She sets forth in this self-examination what she wants, and it will find an echo in the hearts of most of us:

"But I want first of all—in fact, as an end to these other desires—to be at peace with myself. I want a singleness of eye, a purity of intention, a central core to my life that will enable me to carry out these obligations and activities as well as I can. I want, in fact—to borrow from the language of the saints—to live 'in grace' as much of the time as possible . . . I am seeking perhaps what Socrates asked for in the prayer from the Phaedrus when he said, 'May the outward and inward man be at one.' I would like to achieve a state of inner spiritual grace from which I could function and give as I was meant to in the eye of God."

She has several suggestions for achieving this state of grace and the first is the simplification of her life.

"What a circus act we women perform every day of our lives," she writes. "It puts the trapeze artist to shame."

There's no way of summing up in a few lines the lessons Mrs. Lindbergh learned from the sea; and even if there were, you'd want to read them for yourself. But she gives us something to think about and aim for—simplification, "the art of shedding" possessions, activities, demands; selectivity, solitude, work of one's own to do.

She relieves us of the necessity of worrying about the world, great masses of people and tomorrow and helps us instead to grasp anew "a true appreciation of the value of the here and the now and the individual."

Austrian Diplomat Visits Here.

By YOLANDE GWIN

The wife of an Austrian diplomat said here Tuesday that the American cocktail party has been a "nice introduction" to her country.

"It has become very popular since World War II," said Mrs. Heinrich Calice of New York, during her first visit to Atlanta.

"I find it a very easy and enjoyable way of entertaining at my home in New York."

"We have a great number of visitors both from this country and from Europe, and entertainment is a major part of our life," she added.

GUESTS OF HECHTS

Mrs. Calice and Dr. Calice, the Austrian consul general in New York, have been in the city as the guests of Austrian Consul Robert Hecht and Mrs. Hecht.

Dr. Calice's station in New York is considered the most important Austrian diplomatic post in the world. The couple is en route to Arizona.

"We're swinging across America," said Mrs. Calice, "seeing as much as we can."

The trim young Austrian swapped a diplomatic career for herself for one of matrimony some 21 years ago. As the former Edith Falta, a native of Vienna, she attended the diplomatic school there and met Heinrich Calice, also a student.

EUROPE

The couple was married when Dr. Calice finished his studies there, and due to wartime conditions his work has been confined to Europe until two years ago when he was sent to New York.

They live in a large house in Pelham, N.Y., and commute to New York with clock-like regularity to attend concerts and plays.

Their home is filled with family heirlooms which Mrs. Calice said "were in our homes in Austria, so naturally we wanted them with us in our American home."

Four boys round out the family. They are George, Andreas, Franz and Heinrich, all of school age.

And does Mrs. Calice like to go dancing?

"Of course," smiled the charming visitor. "And I still prefer the Viennese waltzes."

Writers Club To Hear Talk By Dr. Brown

Dr. M. Gordon Brown, assistant chancellor of the University System of Georgia, will discuss literature of Latin America and his experiences as cultural attaché with the U.S. Office of Education and the State Department, at the dinner meeting of the Atlanta Writers Club Thursday night.

Members and guests will gather at 6:45 p.m. at the Atlanta Woman's Club. According to the president, Harold Randon, there will be several surprises in store which will vie in interest with Dr. Brown's talk.

There will be an exhibit of "Miniature Rustic Scenes," fanciful reproductions by Mrs. Joyce Cobb.

Rabun Gap-Nacoochee Guild to Gather

Rabun Gap-Nacoochee Junior Guild will meet Friday at 10:30 a.m. at the Piedmont Driving Club.

All members are urged to attend this meeting.

THEY'RE IN THE MOVIES

Atlanta Girls Club Stars Little, Bright

By MARY DENMARK

The stars right now are little, but bright.

Down at the Atlanta Girls Club, that is. And the phrase you'll hear in classroom, corridor and playground is, "I'm in the MOVIES."

For the past couple of Saturdays there have been lights, cameras, and plenty of action as a trio of amateur movie makers record life at the Girls Club.

The cameramen, Dr. Hoyt Simpson, Dr. Simpson Davis and Gates Dunn, are members of the Atlanta Movie Club, and they've donated time, talent and equipment to making a 20-minute color film story of the club.

TIME OF THEIR LIVES

The Girls Club, on the other hand, supplies the film and the stars, and according to Louise Massey, director of the club, the young members are having the time of their lives.

"Look at all that light," you'll hear one youngster say. "It's just like looking at the sun."

Or, "I'm a star in the movies!"

Or, "How does that camera work?"

"The girls are all very curious about how the pictures are made," Miss Massey said. "Nevertheless, they cooperate beautifully with the cameramen and follow direction quite well."

"NOT TOO MUCH ACTING"

"Really, they're not doing too much acting since the pictures mainly deal with activities at the club. They accept the cameramen as regular leaders and go on about their business."

The finished movie, which is as yet untitled, will be a sound film with script and narration by Dean Dickens. There will be scenes from the club—sewing, cooking, charm and ballet classes—as well as "local color shots" from the club neighborhood.

Actors from the Playmakers will take part in these scenes away from the club itself.

"We hope to be able to give the first showing at the annual Atlanta Girls Club meeting on April 28," Miss Massey said. "After that it will be available for showing to adult groups."

COMMUNITY CHEST

"You know," she added, "the club is a Community Chest agency now, so the movie will help us let people know what their money is going for."

Working with the movie makers and the young stars are several members of the Junior Atlanta Woman's Club which sponsors the Girls Club.

Mrs. Henry A. Gillespie is chairman of public relations for the Girls Club. Mrs. John L. Bridges and Miss Lorton Lee are in charge of props, and Mrs. H. D. Avra and Mrs. Foster Hunt handle the casting.

"What we're trying to get across in this film," Miss Massey said, "is how the Girls Club supplements the home life of the children in this neighborhood and how we carry out its purpose as a girl guidance organization."

Adair Park Meeting

Mrs. Owen Kellum will speak on the care and growth of dahlias at the meeting of the Adair Park Garden Club Friday at 2:30 p.m. at the home of Mrs. J. D. Wootan at 632 Brookline St., SW. Mrs. T. A. McGee will preside.

Hint for Lent

A Rich Sauce Gives Fish Fillet a Boost

A good, rich sauce does wonders for a simple fish fillet. By cooking the haddock first in court bouillon, the strong flavor is removed and a tempting main dish is ready for one of those meatless days.

Serve with glazed carrots and a crisp cole slaw with cherry pie for dessert.

POACHED BAKED HADDOCK

One 1-lb. package frozen haddock fillets
3 cups court bouillon
3 tablespoons enriched margarine
3 tablespoons flour
¾ cup milk
1 tablespoon lemon juice
½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
¼ cup chopped parsley
3 tablespoons Parmesan cheese

1. Thaw fish fillets according to directions on package. Cut in serving size pieces. 2. To make Court Bouillon cover and boil for 10 minutes 3 cups water, 1 slice lemon, 1 stalk celery, 1 carrot, 3 peppercorns, 2 teaspoons salt. Reduce heat, add fish fillets and simmer 10 minutes. 3. Remove fillets from pan, drain thoroughly and place in greased shallow baking dish. 4. Remove vegetables from bouillon, reserving ¾ cup bouillon. 5. Melt margarine, stir in flour, add milk and bouillon. 6. Cook, stirring constantly until thickened. Add lemon juice, Worcestershire sauce and parsley. 7. Pour over fish in baking dish. Sprinkle with Parmesan cheese. 8. Bake in a moderately hot oven (375 degrees F.) 15 to 20 minutes or until cheese is lightly browned. Serves four.

Women Love To Talk About Diets

By IDA JEAN KAIN

The feminine mind is ever intrigued by strange diets. And even though reducing has gone scientific, with spring in the air, daffy diets will crop up like crocuses. In an hilarious monologue, the inimitable Ruth Draper ridicules daffy diet fads. Here we go. . . .

The scene is a fashionable downtown restaurant, famous for its fine food. Miss Draper has invited three other ladies to lunch. As hostess, she explains that unfortunately she cannot join them in the tempting dishes, since she is dieting. As it turns out, all four ladies are dieting . . . and such diets!

WHAT'S YOURS?

"What's yours, Clara dear? Oh, you're going to that raw carrot man . . . most attractive creature . . . You'll have a whole bunch of carrots . . . with the green tops left on?"

(To the second dieter.)

"And what is your diet . . . nothing but WHAT? A cold boiled—did you say turnip? Full of Vitamin Q, you say? Q makes brains . . . goes straight to the head. Aren't diets wonderful?"

(To the third dieter.)

"And yours is the juice of 11 lemons! Ten for breakfast, one more every meal until you reach 100 . . . then what happens? Then you are renewed . . . nothing can touch you? How wonderful!"

The finale was the hostess' diet . . . three chocolate eclairs. She explains to her dieting friends. "Finally, after all these years, I've found a doctor who believes that people should eat whatever they fancy most . . . but nothing else. I was examined and so was the eclair . . . and they found that an éclair contains exactly what my system lacks."

ALL IN FUN

This was all in fun, of course . . . but at that, these daffy diets are not much more far-fetched than some faddy diets overweights hasten to go on. Why any woman should punish herself by going hungry on scanty fare when she could reduce happily and healthfully on scientifically planned low calorie fare, this dietitian has never been able to fathom.

No doubt the food faddists are to blame—they promise all manner of things dear to the human heart. The food faddist of today has replaced the old-time, fast-talking medicine man, and blending half truths with false claims in a pseudo-scientific fashion, he trades on the hopes and fears of people.

Nothing tops Hollywood's taste and nutritive value. Baked and flavored with 8 different dehydrated vegetable flours. Why not enjoy this distinctive bread at your next meal. Fact is, your whole family will enjoy it.

AFTRA and Guild Asked To Take Over TV Awards

NEW YORK, March 15 — With Born, asking radical advice as indignation growing all over the country in the TV industry and among TV editors, California home for $200,000. . . .

Joan Crawford selling her among TV editors, California home for $200,000. . . .

Jimmy Dorsey, El Morocchino quacy of the recent "Emmy" awards, look for these things to happen as corrective measures: AFTRA, the union which embraces TV and radio, with a membership of perhaps 14,000, and Screen Actors Guild, a ruling body for all TV performers who do shows on film, are being asked to take over the TV awards and place them on the same high basis as the Academy Award setup for motion pictures.

If this jells, the important Screen Writers' Guild and Screen Directors' Guild, prominently involved in the area of filmed TV, undoubtedly would be part of the operation with the nomination and awards determined by the people working in the TV industry.

This would eliminate any commercial influences. Under the present haphazard system there is no distinction made between live TV and filmed TV, which obviously is unfair and can be corrected by two separate divisions for voting purposes.

Nanette Not An Imogene—But Good

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD, March 15 (UP)—Nanette Fabray, Sid Caesar's new TV buff, admits she's no Imogene Coca and hasn't a nifty intention of imitating the pixie-like comedienne.

"I'd signed me for two guest shots, so I wasn't afraid of what I was getting into," she explained over a chicken liver omelette breakfast. "I'd heard Nanette Fabray had been scared stiff if I'd known we'd eventually be working as a team."

Nanette, a chic brownette with green eyes, had worked occasionally on "Show of Shows" with the Caesar-Coca team and was worried she might unconsciously mimic Imogene.

"I realize now I'm not taking anything from her. All we have in common is that we've both worked with Sid."

"Have to admit, though," she added, "I'd love to be able to pull Imogene's 'dead eye.' She drops one eyelid better than anyone in show business."

The snub-nosed charmer visited Hollywood to spend a week in her Beverly Hills home. She lives in a New York apartment three weeks a month and treks off to filmville the other week.

"I bought my home here two years ago, but I've managed to spend only four months in it. When you're born in California," she said, "you get used to having a backyard and flowers. It kills me to buy posies in New York."

Stocks Rally; Up $7 in Some Spots

Best Surge in 15 Years; Tape Falls Behind Twice

By RADER WINGET

NEW YORK, March 15 (AP)—The stock market rallied today with a vigor not matched in more than 15 years. It was a surging rebound from recent heavy losses. Gains were widespread and went to around seven points in significant sections.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks advanced $2.30 at $154.40. The gain was the best since Sept. 5, 1949, at the beginning of World War II.

The elections in November in which the Republicans did much better than Wall Street had expected.

It was the greatest gain for the average since Sept. 5, 1939, at the beginning of World War II, when it advanced $3.30.

The average closed at $154.40.

The industrial component was ahead $4.40 (it lost $5.40 yesterday, rallies were up $3.10, and utilities up 40 cents.

There were many wide gainers in the list and they were well distributed. Here are a few:

ern Railway 3 1/2, Standard Oil (N.J.)

EQUALLY SURPRISING

The reaction in the market came on the heels of a sustained rally that put it at the highest point in history. Brokers, as a consequence, looked for a corrective reaction.

The tempo and extent of the drop,

however, surprised many.

Today's rebound was equally surprising, although not completely unexpected.

Because the Monday break took prices down so sharply, there were many bargain hunters on hand at the opening today. They rushed in and bought so heavily that the tape fell behind during most of the first hour.

Prices held to their best fairly well and then began a climb that continued steadily to within a few minutes of the close.

OUT OF BOUNDS

Buying burst out of bounds for a second time, and again the tape was late in reported actual transactions on the floor of the New York Stock Exchange.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks with a rise of $2.90 topped the gain of $2.60 scored right after the close.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 heart	Pass	2 diamonds	Pass
2 hearts	Pass	2 spades	Pass
3 hearts	Pass	3 no trump	Pass
4 diamonds	Pass	7 no trump	Pass

Opening lead: Six of spades.

After carrying off the world's championship against a team representing the United States, the British team accepted an invitation to participate in an unofficial match with a group of Life Masters currently residing in Miami. It was your reporter's great pleasure to compete in this event and to renew acquaintances with my English friends, Kenneth Konstan and Leslie Dodds whom we had met in Bermuda in the first official world's championship in 1951.

A hand which rated to effect an enormous swing and consequently turn the tide of battle, curiously proved to be merely a standoff.

The diagram sets for the bidding sequence when the North and South hand held by the Miamians, William Seamon in the North and Harry Harkavy in the South. Harkavy's response to two diamonds may seem quite bizarre with a hand of such tremendous proportions, but he confided in me subsequently he rather held his partner under suspicion of a psychic bid and did not wish to make any commitment until he first determined that his partner "was on the level." If North actually had an opening he must respond to the two diamond call. When North did respond Harkavy reached the conclusion that a small slam was laydown and seven a distinct probability.

East came in with a belated spade bid and Harkavy immediately barged into Blackwood. To make assurance doubly sure he checked for the missing king and then decided to contract for a grand slam. Inasmuch as hearts were rebid it was reasonable to play partner for a good suit headed by king and queen.

The six of spades was opened and won with the ace in dummy. Declarer realized there was no sound hope to make his contract when it was determined there was no doubtless queen-jack of hearts. His purpose then was to hold his loss to a minimum. By giving up a low diamond trick early in the play he was able to establish a

A Rhyme a Day

"Visiting European diplomat says American women drive their husbands too hard."—News item.

"One-half of the world doesn't know." It is said . . . "how the other half lives" and it worries instead . . . of enjoying the little or much that it owns . . . so, the peasants who labor, and kings on their thrones . . . and you and your wife and your neighbors, no doubt . . . will always have something to worry about.

For example, to quote from some ambitious spouse . . . "The Phillip McGooley's have bought a new house . . . I wish you could see it, it's simply supreme . . . I tell you, my love, it's an architect's dream . . . it has a big playroom, a 20-foot bar . . . and I hear they have ordered an imported car."

And then you recall, you were talking to Phil . . . and he told you, "I guess I'll be working until . . . I am 90 years old and I'll still be in debt . . . as long as there's something my woman can get . . . and after she gets it, some one of her friends . . . will try to out-do her; the thing never ends . . . I'll be on the treadmill the rest of my life . . . attempting to please an extravagant wife."

One-half of the world doesn't know much about . . . how the other half lives, but it tries to find out . . . but a man doesn't know much about it till he . . . discovers he's married to Simon LeGree."

(No, Mama, I didn't have you in mind at all.)

Best Treatment For Hernia? Surgery

Surgery is the best treatment for hernia and many victims jeopardize the chance of complete recovery by putting off the operation. Some persons procrastinate because they have heard of failures or are afraid they will not survive the ordeal. I could sympathize with this attitude 40 years ago, but not today.

The mortality rate, as a result of modern surgery, is lower than ever in the history of medicine. This is true in all age groups. Anesthetics are safer and more expertly administered, surgeons are trained thoroughly, and techniques are better established.

This does not mean that the hernia can be neglected forever. So long as it exists, the possibility of serious strangulation is present. This is only part of the story, however.

Most hernias grow larger when left untreated. The longer the bulge remains, the weaker the abdominal wall becomes. The ensuing over-stretched tissues lose their elasticity, leaving little "body" for the surgeon to work on should operation be required.

I have seen several instances where the sutures tore out as they would if a housewife tries to mend an old cloth. No wonder recurrences are common when the repair job has been put off for years. Furthermore, procrastinators, when they undergo an operation that fails, usually say, "I told you so." Best results are obtained while the tissues are strong and in good condition.

But large and long standing hernias are not beyond repair. During the past decade surgeons have sewed many metallic and plastic materials into the muscle to hold in the protrusion. Tantalum gauze is one of the most popular.

The metallic mesh is inserted carefully at the time of operation. It is nonabsorbable and nonirritating and "acts as a scaffolding for the ingrowth of fibrous tissue." By the end of a year these fibers are so thoroughly infiltrated into the mesh as to produce a covering of great strength. Meanwhile, the tantalum disintegrates but this makes no difference because the scar tissue that remains offers vital support.

A Pakistan physician implants human skin instead of tantalum mesh or plastic material into the wound. He has performed 104 such operations on individuals with a large hernia. The outcome was gratifying; only one failure occurred in which the repaired area bulged out slightly on coughing.

Religious Crutches Draw a Warning

Dr. Norman Vincent Peale, is one of America's foremost clergymen and a topnotch orator.

"He was visiting my church recently," a clerical friend of mine informed me.

"I showed him our ornate altars and costly stained glass windows. But he wasn't very much impressed."

"For Dr. Peale seems to think a clergyman should not lean too heavily on ritual and ornate religious art."

"Dr. Crane, what do you think of Dr. Peale's attitude?"

WHAT DID JESUS DO?

If we look back at the outstanding religious leader of all time, what do we find that Jesus did?

His Sermon on the Mount was not delivered in an ornately sculptured church, nor did he have a backdrop of beautiful stained glass windows.

For most of Christ's great work and His sermons occurred in very simple, unpretentious places.

He didn't even have the benefit of the old-fashioned chautauqua tent. Nor did he meet in huge, rough hewn frame revival tabernacle buildings such as Billy Sunday employed.

For Jesus apparently relied, as does Dr. Peale and most of the other virile clergymen, upon the power of the spoken word.

RELIGIOUS CRUTCHES

Now we psychologists do not indict all use of art in churches. We don't insist upon the austere simplicity of the Quaker meeting house.

And the weaker their oratory. But we do, however, recognize the fact that many clergymen grow fat and lazy as they advance in years.

As their virility wanes, they try to get by on second-rate oratory becomes, the more they try to work their congregation up to the former exalted peak by use of acolyte boys to light the candles, and by robed choirs of various age groups.

And those stimuli often work up the audience to the proper mood in a far better degree than do the words uttered by the lazy cleric.

But clergymen must be very careful not to rely too heavily on such ecclesiastical "crutches."

STAND UPRIGHT

For someday they may be asked to preach a sermon out in the open air, as Jesus did.

Then they must attempt to stand upright on the basis of their own vigorous sermonizing. And the shock will be terrific, for if they have developed the habit for many years of leaning on church decorations as their crutches, they may make a very poor showing before their new audience.

A topnotch clergyman, such as Bishop Sheen or Dr. Norman

Vincent Peale, can speak in the open air and soon take an audience up to a mountain-top experience.

So, clergymen, beware of leaning on ecclesiastical crutches too heavily.

'MRS. D. A.'

Woman Prosecutor's Smile Belies Her Tactical Ability

By JIMMY WALKER Constitution Staff Writer

TOCCOA, March 15—When the state rests its case in Stephens County Court, the evidence has been sifted with the thoroughness of a cook testing a new recipe.

Georgia's only woman prosecutor, Mrs. Ollie Mae Stowe, guides the prosecution, usually with a beguiling smile and friendly voice.

But many a defendant has discovered only too late he's dealing with a clever courtroom tactician.

Mrs. Stowe was "practically raised in the courthouse," she admits. Her husband, the late Fred Stowe, was Stephens County sheriff for 20 years. Mrs. Stowe was clerk of the county commissioners for many years.

NEAT PHRASE

She can turn a neat legal phrase before most women can say "court adjourned."

Mrs. Stowe was appointed solicitor in 1949 when Winston Owen moved up as solicitor general of the mountain circuit. Since then, she's sought the facts in hundreds of cases, from thousands of witnesses.

Filling the solicitor's role presents no particular difficulties to a woman, Mrs. Stowe says, but she admits the defendants "seem to think I have a little more sympathy for them than a man, and I suppose I do."

SHABBY HOMELIFE

The stories that bother Mrs. Stowe most, however, are the ones that unfold in court of shabby homelife, neglected children and indifferent parents.

"Delinquent children worry me and I hate to send them off to training school. Being a mother myself, it hurts," she said. Mrs. Stowe has one daughter, Mrs. F. J. Stone, in Alaska, and one son, Walter, in Toccoa High School.

The solicitor sometimes wishes the parents of the boy or girl on trial were in the witness chair facing her probing questions. "But the parents often don't want even to come to court with their child," she said.

USUALLY REALIZE

The youngsters sent off to training school usually realize sooner or later that they had a friend that day in court in the small, slender lady.

FSU's Burton To Talk With Teachers Here

Dr. Dwight L. Burton, professor of English education at Florida State University, will confer Thursday with teachers of English in Atlanta public schools.

LEGAL TACTICIAN Mrs. Stowe

Mrs. Stowe is known around the county for her many hours of extra duty, arranging, with the help of the Welfare Department, for the care of children whose parents face jail, or seeking to interest parents in rearing their children properly.

A practicing attorney since 1945, Mrs. Stowe remembers that her first case ended in double trouble for her client. "The judge appointed me to represent a defendant. He came to court drunk, got 12 months in the case, and drew a contempt of court fine, too."

Stuart To Speak at Sandy Springs
